Council, mayor eye 4-year elected terms

By STEVE O'LEARY
ANP Staff Writer

If the Romulus City Council and Mayor Beverly McAnally have their way, city officials — both legislative and administrative — will no longer surrender their seats after two years in office, and instead would be elected to four-year terms by the voters of the city.

At last Monday's regular meeting of the council, Councilman Barry Baumann spoke out in favor of charter revisions which would allow the longer intervals.

"The residents of Romulus have made it clear that the four-year term should go on the ballot."

— Councilman Barry Baumann

"I suggested that the city attorney look into possibly ammending the charter and getting it on the November ballot," Baumann said. The vote was unanimous in favor of the idea.

According to Baumann, with the two-year terms now in place, officials have no time to grow in their job before another election rolls around.

"The first six months, one is getting settled in place, the next year they can work uninterrupted, and then the last six months are spent campaigning," he said.

McAnally feels that those figures may even be exaggerated.

"I think that is a very generous estimate," McAnally said, "I personally think that the last year is spent in preparation for the next election, or at least with it in mind."

What the council and McAnally are looking at are possible four-year terms for the city administrators — the mayor, clerk and treasurer — and a "staggered term" for the council, which means that the top three or four vote-getters would be elected for four years, while the remaining would hold their seats for two.

"The residents of Romulus have made it clear to me and my fellow council members that the four-year term should go on the ballot," Baumann said. "I hear it quite often.

"It would give the city quite a bit more stability. I think it (the two-year terms) is a holdover from Romulus' more controversial days. Things are settled down enough now I think for the people to accept four-year terms."

McAnally said that it is "very difficult now. I think I am very fortunate that I'd had 10 years in government here before I was elected. For instance, if I hadn't been familiar with economic development plan before, it would have been months... as it was, I plunged into it my first month in office, and we forged ahead and accomplished some goals."

According to McAnally, the recall elections of last year may have had at least one point in their favor.

"I think the concern before with the four-year term was accountability. But now, I think the people have seen that recalls can be achieved. If someone is irresponsible in office, they can be taken out without waiting out a term.

"Politics in Romulus have matured, I think, in the last four years," McAnally said. "Four years ago, straight four-year terms for administration and council were turned down by the voters in the November elections."

Councilman Junior Block agrees that the two-year terms hinder programs and output, particularly the newly elected.

"Many people elected to the city council for the first time, it takes them seven or eight months to really get their feet wet. As it is," said Block, "It seems that every time you turn around there's another election.

"And another thing," Block added, "it would save the people money on elections!"

Missy, the German Shepherd, is one of the Michigan Humane Society's special clients. So were her four pups, who have been adopted. The six-year-old dog, whose owner pushed her from a moving car onto Michigan Avenue, has learned to trust humans again, is awaiting a new, more loving home.

MHS battles animal cruelty

By ROSE MARY REIZ
ANP Staff Writer

Missy, a German Shepherd, was six years old and pregnant when she was shoved from her owner's moving car onto Michigan Avenue.

Confused and frightened, she paced between lanes of pounding tires and blaring horns in a hopeless search for safety.

Missy was lucky.

She survived the ordeal, was captured by an animal control officer and transported to the Michigan Humane Society, where an employee opened her home as a temporary foster facility.

Now the mother of four pups, Missy no longer lashes out at hands that she had learned to fear. She is regaining her trust.

Her puppies have been adopted, and the society is confident that they may have a home lined up for Missy as well.

To those who work at the Michigan Humane Society (MHS), the story is all too familiar, with one exception — most don't have as happy an ending.

MHS is a non-profit organization, which depends on fees and contributions to fund the temporary housing and care of stray and unwanted pets.

The organization also operates a pet adoption program, a veterinary clinic and plays an active role in investigating animal cruelty cases and trying to change legislation to achieve greater animal protection.

Thanks to an aggressive adoption plan, many seeking pets now turn to the society.

Many also turn to the organization as an appropriate place to leave unwanted or stray animals that they have found or can no longer care for. Most don't like to think about what happens after they leave.

The MHS staff knows. And often takes the blame.

"We're sometimes labeled as the bad guys because we have to put animals to sleep," Westland Shelter Manager Kathy Blauet said, "but people have to remember that we're just cleaning up their mess — we're not breeding here."

There are usually 100 to 150 animals, mostly dogs, in the Westland shelter at all times. Blauet said. The vast majority of these aren't strays at all, but animals who have been brought by their owners to the shelter, located at 37255 Marquette.

"And," she added, "you wouldn't believe some of the reasons."

"We hear things like, 'We have to get rid of the dog because we've got different carpeting now and the hairs show.' Some people just drop off their pet because they're going on vacation and don't want to pay to board the animal — they figure they'll just get another one when they come back.

"That's why we have an adoption program that screens applicants. Some people say we're too critical, that we should give a pet to anyone who wants one. But we've seen what happens to pets that aren't cared for. We're looking for permanent responsible homes, not just until the kids in the family get tired of the pet or the novelty wears off, but for the duration of the pet's life. A pet deserves that."

Some, like Missy, fare better the second time around.

In an attempt to place as many unwanted pets as possible in new homes, an animal brought by its owner to the shelter [illegible] given a physical examination. If the pet's health, as well as temperment, is good and if space is available, the animal is given shots, wormed and placed in the adoption area.

Those adopting a pet must agree to pay for neutering, part of MHS's attempt at controlling the pets' greatest enemy — overpopulation.

Smaller, younger animals have a better chance of being adopted than larger, older pets, Blauet said. For strays, the chances are even slimmer.

Stray animals captured by animal control officers are isolated from other pets at the shelter.

If the animal is wearing an identification tag, the owner is contacted and the animal is held for seven days.

"In most cases, there is no ID," Blauet said, "and the animal is kept for only four days."

Unlike owner-surrendered animals, the history, behavior and temperament of strays are unknown factors — another reason that candidacy for adoption is unlikely.

If no one claims or adopts the pet, it is euthanized — put to sleep with an injection, while held by a volunteer worker.

"All of this does still get to us," Blauet, who owns several pets of her own, admitted. "We're not immune to this — after all, we wouldn't work here if we didn't love animals. But it's a stressful job."

Some of the stress comes from watching repeat performances of scenes that illustrate the ignorance and irresponsibility of many pet owners.

"We see animals with fur so matted and tangled it has to be cut off," Blauet said. "We've

City, Teamsters ratify new 3-year contract

A union contract between the city of Romulus and Teamsters Local 214 has been ratified. In a special meeting held Monday night, the city council gave their approval to the three-year pact.

Approximately 115 city employees will be affected by the contract, including workers for the Department of Public Works and clerical employees.

The contract specifies that union workers will receive an across-the-board 5 percent increase effective immediately, with additional increases of 3 percent to be paid on July 1, 1985; 2 percent to be paid on July 1, 1986; and another 1 percent increase effective Jan. 1, 1987.

In addition, the contract clarified the language on issues of retirement at age 65, added spouse's benefits and surviving spouses benefits after retirement, and negotiated a "25 and out" clause for those wishing early retirement.

Mayor Beverly McAnally said: "I think it is a fair contract, one which the city of Romulus can afford and live with. It offers security and begins to bring us more in line with other communities of comparable size and resources.

"I am pleased that the negotiating team acted upon this contract within the proper time frame and did so using a minimum amount of expensive legal advice," McAnally added.

The negotiations took 2½ months, not a long period of time for contract negotiations of this type. The old contract expired July 1.

Romulus goes 'Hotel Happy'

The Romulus Planning Commission gave "thumbs up" Monday night to a newly-proposed hotel, which will be built in the city, with construction tentatively scheduled to begin later this year.

According to preliminary reports, the hotel will contain a restaurant, swimming pool and banquet room among its facilities. It will be located on Wickham Road, between the already-existing Hilton Hotel and Ramada Inn, right next to the Budgetal motel, which is currently under construction.

The structure will be a part of the Days Inn chain, a nationwide corporation based in Atlanta, Georgia.

Lucas seeks release of HUD funds

The Office of Wayne County Executive William Lucas will request the U.S. Department of Housing and Urban Development to release federal funds for four separate projects in Romulus totaling $74,724.

The request will fall under Title 1 of the Housing and Community Act of 1974 as amended through the housing and Urban-Rural Recover act of 1983.

Some $20,000 will go to provide improvements to two city parks, Kennedy and Cypress, including a baseball complex architectural costs required to convert a school to a recreation center by September of 1985.

Also, there is planned renovation of the Romulus Help Center, a neighborhood facility at 35085 Goddard, which is occupied by a non-profit organization. The planned $15,000 will bring the center up to code requirements.

Monies from 1982 and '83 will help towards the $16,724 earmarked for construction of widening Wayne Road from I-94 to Wick.

The remaining $23,000 will go towards city-wide public services, with provisions to fund supplement educational science fairs, to fund operations of private, non-profit neighborhood associations; and a summer youth program to provide employment at three non-profit agencies by September of 1985.

The funds can only be approved under the above-mentioned act, if it is found that the release of the funds will not constitute an action significantly affecting the human environment or the environment in general, which officials of Wayne County feel it will not.

MAC camp available

Camp Mich-MAC, a camp for children with asthma, is now accepting applications for its summer program. The camp is designed for children with severe asthma who have been thought to be too sick to go to camp. It is open to girls and boys ages 7-14. All asthmatics will be mainstreamed with non-asthmatic children in the camp program.

Activities include swimming, sailing, canoeing, fishing, horseback riding, overnights, arts and crafts, nature and ecology, sports and asthma education programs.

Camp Ohiyesa, near Milford, offers two one-week sessions for 7- to 10-year-olds. The sessions will be held July 22-July 28 and July 29-Aug. 4, and the cost is $185, with the children providing their own transportation.

Camp Nissokone, near Oscoda, offers either a one- or two-week session for 10- to 14-year-old children. Sessions are July 21-July 28 and July 28-Aug. 4. Cost for the one week program is $195 and $375 is the cost for the two-week program, which includes transportation from metro Detroit. Full and partial camperships also are available for all sessions.

The camp is designed as a part of YMCA Summer Camp and is sponsored by the Michigan Allegy Society, the American Lung Association of Michigan Chapter of the American Academy of Pediatrics. It is staffed by volunteer allergists, fellows, pediatricians, nurses, respiratory therapists and pharmacists.

For information and applications contact Camp Michi, 330 S. Main St., Plymouth 48170 (962-1590, ext. 38), or University of Michigan Hospital Allergey Clinic at 764-6142.

Sports camp offered

Sports camps for boys and girls in soccer and for girls in basketball get underway at Schoolcraft College in Livonia on July 23.

The basketball camp is in fundamentals for girls in the fourth through ninth grades. It runs from 9 a.m. to 3 p.m. daily for one week, under the direction of Ed Kavanaugh, who coached championship teams at both Schoolcraft and at Ladywood High this past season. The cost is $58.

Soccer camps at Schoolcraft are for boys and girls ages 6-18. One-week sessions begin on July 23, Aug. 6 and 13. They are under the direction of Larry Christoff, Schoolcraft's men's team coach and "coach of the year" for region 12 among community colleges.

Cost for the first two soccer camps is $70 and the third, which begins Aug. 13, is $90 and geared for the more advanced players.

Advance registration for the camps is suggested. Telephone the College's physical education department at 591-6400, ext. 480.

UAW-Ford program readies unemployed for work

By SUE McDONALD
ANP News Editor

Hard luck stories are nothing new to Paul Goff. He's heard plenty of them since April. Many bring tears to his eyes, and most he hopes, with a little help, will have happy endings.

Goff, a 13-year employee of the Ford Motor Company, heads up the satellite office of the UAW-Ford Employee Development and Training Program, designed to aid laidoff workers, who still have recall rights with the automaker find employment.

A robust man who has worked at Ford's Saline plant and held various positins at the local and internatinal level of the UAW, he speaks softly about the people he has met since the office in the west wing of the Nankin Mills Learning Center in Westland opened in April.

"We have documented cases of suicide as the result of unemployment, of people who have turned to drugs and alcohol to ease the pain and pressure," he said. "We get people with anger in their eyes because of what has happened to them... others with tears in their eyes because they don't know who to turn to for help.

"We've got so many people who want guidance in finding a job. They don't want someone to do all the work for them, just to open up a door."

The joint union-employer program was negotiated as part of the contract agreed to by both sides in 1982 and deals specifically with laidoff workers who still have recall rights with Ford's. An employee's recall right is determined by his number of years seniority with the automaker and can range from 18 months for those with less than one year seniority to not less than 132 months for those with 10 but less than 11 years on the job.

Centers are located at Macomb Community College, Marygrove College and in Dearborn in areas with the "heaviest concentration" of laidoff Ford employees.

"We get people with anger in their eyes because of what has happened to them... others with tears in their eyes because they don't know who to turn to for help."
— Paul Goff

They provide a wide range of professional services all aimed at getting their clients back to work, whether it be through assistance in arranging job interviews, individually designed training programs through on-the-job training or through retraining.

The staff, many of whom are themselves laidoff autoworkers, work closely with professional vocational counselors to offer clients career counseling, referral services concerning educational and tuition assistance, personal/family support systems, job search skills/job club, on the job training and job placement.

"This is one of the kind in employment service, because you don't have to pay any fees," Goff explained. "We offer as many professional services as we can free of charge.

"We have a lot of highly qualified people who come here each week, who came out of these factories. Some are already going to night school in an effort to improve their lot."

The "bottom line" of EDTP is "to provide people with jobs, not any old job," but jobs that can help many get back on their feet financially like one laidoff worker, who was supporting his family and meeting his financial obligations through odd jobs and collecting returnable bottles. When he finally turned to the center for help, his family, including three children, had been living for several months on a diet of crackers soaked in water.

The center was able to get him more palatable food for his family, worked with his creditors to relieve his financial burdens for awhile and placed him in a Job Club. At last word, according to Goff, he had had his first positive job contact and the center was waiting to hear if he had accepted.

"The days of knocking on the door of labor relations and saying you want a job with Ford's is long gone," he said. "Today you have to be able to offer something to the employer. That's what this is all about."

"It only takes about two weeks of working with people who have lost their jobs, their homes and their family to make you very dedicated."

Admittedly, dealing with laidoff workers with recall rights is only a few of the workers who have lost their jobs. Goff speaks of several thousand the center hopes to reach in the Western Wayne County area, although he admits it could be as high as 5,000.

The center faces two problems — getting the word out to eligible laidoff workers that it's there and finding employers.

The center has been working through the various Ford factories and with lists of the laidoff, although, Goff speculates, that many on those lists may be out of the reach of center because of relocation, repossession of their home, a disconnected telephone or worse.

As for potential employers, Goff admits that there are numerous $6 and $7 an hour jobs to be had, but that employers may be balking at hiring former autoworkers to avoid a possible burst of anger at a job paying almost half per hour as much as the automaker.

"It's like they're almost embarrassed, if they offer less," he added.

Laidoff workers entering the program attend about a three-hour orientation — by appointment only — through which counselors determine eligibility. About 15 attend the sessions each week, and if they hope to hear about the pot of gold at the end of the rainbow, just the opposite is true.

The picture Goff paints for them is one of hope, only if they are willing to work or train for it.

"There's so many people here, people who have worked hard for what they have and are losing it," Goff said. "It really upsets me everyday to see the tragedies that come through these doors.

"We're doing it all backwards. People were coming out of high school with a diploma in one hand and nothing in the other. Now, when they're 35 years old, we're putting something in that other hand."

Eligible laidoff Ford employees can contact the Westland satellite center by calling 595-2254. The Dearborn office can be reached by calling 565-3066.

Road resurfacing

The Romulus Public Works Committee and the Finance Department have received approval from Mayor Beverly McAnally and the council for the go-ahead on a project to resurface sections of six roads.

The streets earmarked for resurfacing are Ferndale Avenue (1,200 feet), Mario Ann Court (860 feet), Hildebrandt Road (1,320 feet), Harrison Road-Erose South (235 feet), Brandt Road (400 feet) and Henry Ruff, from Beverly Road to the existing concrete.

The Public Works Comittee recommended that the paving projects be designed and let for bids.

Over 80 club

Congratulations to the following residents with birthdays in July that will carry them past the 80-year-old stage: Maude Malone (20th), Bessie Burton (21st), Agnus Unger (23rd) and Pearl Ashby (31st).

Historical Society

The Romulus Historical Society will be meeting at 7:30 tonight at the Library, located at 11121 Wayne Road. They meet once a month, and anyone desiring information on the group should call 697-9628.

A busy May

According to police, there were 44 cases of assault and battery in Romulus during the month of May, along with five armed robberies, four cases of child abuse and 37 instances of malicious destruction of property.

There also were 11 arrests for breaking and entering, one for assault with intent to commit murder, one for felony firearm and one for receiving and concealing stolen property over $100.

Significant cases included:

As a result of citizen participation, a 15-year-old youth was arrested for breaking into a home on the 37600 block of Castle. A neighbor observed the boy entering the residence through a rear window, according to reports, and proceeded to call the police, who observed the youth running and apprehended him after a foot chase. Further investigation led to clearing up other area robberies and recovery of stolen property.

In another instance, Romulus police officers caught two men inside of the Super J Party Store, located at 31370 Ecorse. One of the men had activated an alarm after they entered from the roof. Warrants were authorized for breaking and entering.

'Open war'

The City of Romulus has issued a statement to the effect that it has "declared open war" on abandoned and inoperable vehicles. Anyone with any complaints of annoying "dead" vehicles should contact Ordinance Director Tom Ellis at Romulus City Hall.

Romulus ranks 18th

In an independent survey prepared by the Romulus City Assessor's Office, Romulus ranked 18th on a list of 18 nearby communities in city millage rates, with 9.90 mills. At the other end of the spectrum, Inkster ranked highest with a rate of 24.17 mills.

Parking woes

Huron Township residents who attend township board meetings know that unless they arrive early, they'll have to park blocks away. But that may be changing soon.

In a letter addressed to the board, Peter Glaab Jr. of P.J.G. Enterprises Inc., offered the use of his property directly across from Township Hall as a parking lot. The township would have to pour gravel and most likely eventually pave, as well as having liability insurance on the land. No fee would be charged, according to Glaab.

The board tabled the matter at last Tuesday's meeting and is strongly considering the offer.

To pay or not to pay... That is the question

Should a firm be required to pay a city a fee in exchange for the right to be that community's primary towing service?

That's the question the Westland City Council wanted answered before it decided which firm would get a two-year contract from the city.

The question was not a new one in the six-month long battle between the mayor and council as to which firm should be the towing contractor. The council had favored Service Towing, which has provided the service, with few problems, for more than four years. Mayor Charles Pickering favored B & H Towing, which unlike Service Towing, offered to return 20 percent of the gross revenues of the business generated as a result of the contract to the city.

The council maintained that the contract is not meant to be a "money maker" for the city, but rather a service to the residents. The mayor maintains that the "financial" package proposed by B & H is in the best interests of the city, so much so that in spite of a two-year contract extension awarded by the council earlier this year, he entered into an agreement with B & H making it the primary towing contractor for the city.

The city is in the process of re-awarding that contract, the direct result of a breach of contract lawsuit filed by Service Towing. It also faces an amended breach of contract suit, filed by B & H Towing.

The new bids resulted in an administration recommendation of awarding the contract to B & H, again because it offered the best financial return for the city, and a question of can a contractor be asked to pay a fee, or "royalty," to get that contract, voiced in passing many months ago became a major issue.

When a service is required, it is common practice that the person needing that service pay for it. The towing contract awarded by the city is the only one in which it requires the contractor to pay. With that in mind, the council's concern about the fee is a legitimate one, although surfacing this late in the dispute gave it political overtones.

The council was wise to seek a legal opinion on that requirement of the contract, not only to clarify the issue, but possibly to avoid further legal problems.

If the city is interested in providing a service to its residents, the financial return should not be the primary consideration, but rather how well that service will be provided. Neither towing firm in this dispute has a clean track record. Service Towing has been accused of excessive charges, while B & H has had its share of problems with vehilces it stored, prior to being designated primary contractor by the mayor.

The city needs to clear up the issue of paying a royalty for the contract now. Once that has been resolved it needs to concentrate on the quality of the service to be provided. Then, and only then, will it be able to state that the towing contract is a service for residents.

After all, that is what this contract was meant to be.

Congratulations, Chorbagian

Kathleen Chorbagian has a big job ahead of her.

As president of the Wayne-Westland Board of Education for the next year, she faces the task of reuniting a school board that has been split 4-3 for more years then she has served on it.

Soft spoken and petite, her size is nowhere near the size of interest she takes in a school district she attended and has been involved in most of her life.

She has been involved in the Bucket Brigade and similar volunteer programs and has been actively involved at the local school and district level of the PTA.

She makes no bones about where her interest as a school board member lies. Her concern is a quality education for the children, and she argues vehemently on their behalf at every opportunity.

Chorbagian is in a unique position as president of the Wayne-Westland school board, in one respect. She is the first woman to chair the board since its inception many decades ago.

The position she now fills is not an easy one. The strife that has marred the school district more times than not has surfaced at the board level. It will be up to her to quell those disputes before they become full-blown fights.

We congratulate Chorbagian on her election as board president and wish her success in that position. Her ability to keep the board on task will be put to the test many times this coming year, and we are confident that she will be able to handle the challenge.

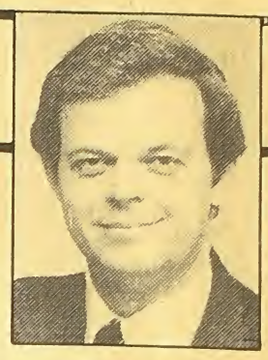
DAVID J. WILLETT
PUBLISHER



It began, I think, innocently enough. There we were, "Pops" and I, together for a time at the family summer house at Sand Lake.

"Pops," my grandfather, was a loveable but complex man and our conversations are among my fondest memories of childhood. This one, in particular, remains with me. "Pops, what was your father's full name?" I inquired.

"Wesley John Willett," came his reply, and he sat back to wait. Sure enough, I asked the question he knew I would. "And what were his parents names?"

That, as I recall, was the beginning. I remember so many scribbled notes on little white scraps of paper. Now, those notes and others along with collected old photographs, fill boxes, files, albums and shelves. The net result? I have come to realize that I, like all of us, am the by-product if you will, of generations of people who I knew nothing about.

Genealogy may be a trivial pursuit or a serious study akin to anthropology, depending on your point of view. There is, however, a strange realization that occurs one day when you begin to know your forebearers.

It now troubles me to discover the great number of people who have little or no knowledge of their origins beyond perhaps their grandparents. I am reminded of a question I heard once on a television game show. When did civilization begin? Answer: When man learned to record history. Recording one's heritage for generations yet to come is part of being civilized.

By doubling exponentially back eight generations (two parents, four grandparents, eight great-grandparents, etc.) we find that we are a descendant of 512 individuals. Many give their roots little or no thought or even wonder what that heritage has to do with the practical pursuits of pounding out a living.

But I want to know. What kind of people are responsible for giving me life? Where did they come from? What did they look like? What were their lives like? What did they have to do to put bread on their table? What hardships did they encounter or overcome? It is a time-consuming study, but it somehow speaks to me and gives me a sense of who I am.

Genealogy gives me a perspective about the brevity of our time here. Studying one's heritage no doubt impacts on people in numerous ways, but I feel a sense of duty to acknowledge the once earthly existence of those who went before me. I hope some day those who follow me will sense that same responsibility and note, in some small way, the lives of those who lived and served as a link in the human chain that has allowed them to exist.

Genealogy is a worthy endeavor, and it seems to me far better than the meaningless pursuits of an endless variety that preoccupy such a large sector of humanity.

A wise soul once noted, "In order to know where you're going, you have to know where you've been." The study of our forebearers can give a sense of knowing where "you" have been.

The study of genealogy is a lifetime pursit. You may find anything and everything, from horse thieves to kings roaming in the family closet. It is entertaining, educational, stimulating and worthy, in my opinion, of the investment of time for a return in satisfaction.

What could be more satisfying than knowing you are doing something that, if not done by you, will not be done by anyone.

Now is the best time to start recording and gathering your family's history. Your great-grandchildren will be grateful.

See you next week.

Candidacy questioned

To the Editor:

I do not understand how a man like Vince Petitpren can run for state representative in the 38th District. He is probably the most incompetent man I ever have met.

I am a pre-nursing student at Wayne State Univeeristy. I am the tenant of one of his apartment buildings. The building is managed by La Salle Management located at 1630 S. Wayne Rd., Westland. The apartment building is located at 488 W. Willis, Detroit, and owned by Mr. Petitpren.

He took over this building about two years ago. During these past two years Mr. Petipren employed 5 managers and all of them left because he failed to pay them. The building has deteriorated because he failed to provide the necessary maintenance. All he has cared about is collecting the rent.

As a result of his greed and mismanagement many tenants have moved out, and those tenants who moved out never got their deposits back. The building is filthy and unfit to live in, ever since he has owned it. Many times Detroit Edison and the water department have turned off electricity and water because he never did pay them the bills. There is never enough heat during winter times.

He even received money from different sources to upgrade the building. But he never did spend any money upgrading the building. Frankly, I do not know what he did with the money.

I do not know how such a man can be allowed to run for the state representative office. Vince Petitpren is not for people. According to his pamphlets he is a teacher, professor, University Administrator, and Superintendent of School. Well — today he is none of those. He is distributing 12-year-old pamphlets. He is having 12-year-old pictures printed in newspapers and elsewhere, in order to fool people.

Well, I hope I have made myself clear. If Mr. Petitpren can't even manage a building of 40 tenants, how would he be able to manage a state representative office? If you do not believe what I have written, come to 488 W. Willis in Detroit and talk to any tenant living in the building.

We should not have such irresponsible men in our democratic system. I am writing as an honest and law-abiding citizen. You have the responsibility to let the citizens know about one's greed.

DENIS MATHEWS,
Detroit

Ed. note: According to Petitpren, he is one of five individuals who own the apartment building at 488 W. Willis. He has 30 percent ownership of the facility, he reported.

Petitpren vehemently denied each of Mathews' charges, claiming that the building has experienced an increase in occupancy from 34 to 50 tenants since being purchased in March of last year. He claims that the owners have spent $30,000 only from private funds to improve conditions and operate the building under the standard apartment lease contract.

Electricity and water never have been cut off on the premises, he said. He noted that the building is inspected regularly by officials from the City of Detroit.

He said that all information contained in his campaign literature is accurate.

Thank you, Romulus

Many will be shocked to find,
When the day of judgement nears,
That there's a special place in Heaven
Set aside for volunteers.

Furnished with big recliners,
Satin couches and footstools,
Where there's no committee Chairman,
No group leaders or car pools.

No eager team that needs a coach,
No bazaar and no bake sales,
There will be nothing to staple,
Not one thing to fold or mail.

Telephone lists will be outlawed,
But a finger-snap will bring,
Cold drinks and gourmet dinners,
And rare treats to fit a king.

You ask, who'll serve these pri-

Electable or not?

Jim Dunn strode confidently into the office, flashing a smile no doubt perfected on the campaign trail.

Confidence does seem to come a bit easier if one happens to be tanned, handsome and rich. Dunn possesses such qualities along with a tenacity that has sent shock waves through the state's staid Republican Party hierarchy.

Dunn, a former Congressman from East Lansing, wants to replace Carl Levin as the junior U.S. senator from Michigan. Many of those who predict Dunn will accomplish his goal also are ardent believers in the tooth fairy, television commercials and the free lunch. It'll take more than money to unseat the incumbent.

"Are you electable?" was the obvious question posed to Dunn, who swept into office with Ronald Reagan in 1980 and hopes to duplicate the feat in November.

"Yes, but it's my job to make it an issue race," responded Dunn, who lost his Congressional seat to Rep. Bob Carr by only 6,000 votes in a 1982 rematch. "People should look beyond labels and I intend to make them aware of the record."

Unlike some baby kissers, Dunn isn't afraid to speak his mind. During the course of an hour interview the millionaire homebuilder called Republican foe Jack Lousma a "liar." He called Levin a "liberal." He said the political bosses wanted a "celebrity" and decided on Lousma, a former astronaut ("they talked to Charlton Heston but I refused to run against Moses," he quipped.)

Should Dunn get past Lousma — polls show the race nearly even — he'll be looking for Reagan coattails to ride on against Levin. The candidate agrees with the President on most issues, except abortion (he's pro-choice) and the Equal Rights Amendment, which he supports.

"C'mon Mr. Dunn, how can you possibly hope to overcome the tremendous name recognition advantage Levin holds over you?"

It's a question Dunn obviously has thought about because the mere mention of Levin sends him into action.

"If you look at the Congressional Quarterly you'll find out that even Sen. Kennedy has voted with the President more often than Levin," Dunn declared. "It's pretty hard to find someone in Washington more liberal than Levin. He was against the 25 percent tax cut, against balancing the budget and he led the fight against capital punishment.

"He's vulnerable," continued Dunn. "People don't know him. I support the President and this will be a critical election if we are to continue his policies. I believe he will win Michigan."

'They talked to Charlton Heston but I refused to run against Moses.'
—Jim Dunn

In the land of Coleman Young, Bill Ford and the UAW — also commonly referred to as Wayne County — "Reaganomics" is considered blasphemous. Showing no respect, Dunn persists in his conviction that "Reaganomics" has captured the imagination of the American public.

"I owned and managed a business through the tough times," explained the 40-year-old Republican. "I made the free enterprise system work."

Dunn is prepared to raise and spend between $2 and $2.5 million, if he wins the August primary, in the 1984 verison of "Campaignomics." Levin supposedly will throw in at least that much.

"Will President Reagan campaign for you if you're the Republican nominee?"

"We don't have any firm commitments but I would think that's a good possibility."

"Will Gov. Blanchard be able to provide much help for Levin?"

"I'll provide the car and driver for the governor if he'll campaign for Levin. You won't see him out there."

Interview over. One can't stay too long in one spot during the final weeks of a campaign. It's 3:15 p.m. and there's enough time for another stop or two in Western Wayne County before dinner.

The Dunn game plan, you see, centers on electability. Since September of last year the candidate has been implementing his brash strategy, offending Party members along the way. At least he's steered clear of Moses.

vileged few,

Why, all those who reaped the benefits,

To list the name of each person who individually, or as a part of a group, provided valuable support and a contribution of time, equipment, and/or money to RPAC would require more space than is permitted.

These people include Romulus civic organizations, businessmen and women, City of Romulus officials and staff, fire and police departments, churches, Romulus school administrators, teachers and other staff members, school PTA's, PTO's and PTG's and of course, parents.

RPAC would not be capable of working for the community's youth without this support.

Thank you, Romulus.

Interested in youth

To the Editor:

I would like to take this opportunity to publicly thank many of our communities' leaders. On June 6th, 19 sixth-graders from my class at Elwell School were treated to dinner at the Brass Belle Restaurant. The evening helped conclude a class on restaurant manners — as well as acquaint the children with many of our area's civic-minded personalities.

Included in the evening were: George Craven (supervisor of VanBuren Township) with Matt Gladhill; Sharron Russell (editor of the Sumpter View) with Paula Hunter; Lynn Hamilton (of Hamolton's Hardware) with Chris Hogan; Sophie Zoller (president of Belleville's Business and Professional Women) with Carrol Smith; Ernie Bradley (director of the North Side of Storer Camps) with Henny Caldwell; Bonnie Pack (president of Elwell's PTO) with Kimberly Blake; Elvin Peets (superintendent of Van Buren Schools) with Kathy Hynes; Don White (principal of South Junior High) with Mike Coleman; Pat Klemmins (librarian at the Fred C. Fischer Library) with Peter Der Stepanian; Justin Emerson (leader in the Citizen's Advisorary Council of Van Buren Schools and former mayor of Belleville) with Larry Blackwell; Juanita Graf (leader in the Citizen's Advisory Council of B.B. Schools) with Stephanie Gubaci; Dave Larabell (principal of Elwell School) with John Cheney; Ruth Clift (secretary of Elwell School) with Jennifer Fallon; Fonnie Butler (off campus coordinator of Van Buren Community Education) with Dwayne Seppala; Pam Brigandi (of the Brass Belle Restaurant) with Glenna Green; Jim Amerman (of Amerman's Lumber) with Lynn Letz; Bob Fowler (president of the Van Buren Board of Education) with Joe Strickland; Connie Brinkerhoff (member of the Van Buren Board of Education) with Kim Pagel, along with Matt Frederick, who attended with his teacher.

My gratitude goes out to these people as they have exhibited their interest in our area's youth.

Hats off to O'Leary

To the Editor:

I would like to compliment you on your choice of such a good writer, Steve O'Leary. Are you sure he's not on loan from the Washington Post?

I was really impressed with the feeling he put into the article on my daughter, Nezula Sibert, and my family. I've had other stories written about myself and my family but this is the first story that really touched me. He made my daughter feel like a STAR.

We're still getting calls and people are still walking up to us and asking her if she's the girl in the Romulus Roman. And at the Fourth of July Parade almost everyone in attendance was saying and whispering that she's the girl in the Romulus Roman.

Several people remarked that Steve O'Leary is a very thorough writer. I'm sure your circulation must have gone way up for that week.

As we continue up the road to success I will always remember that very special writer who took the facts and made it such a beautiful story of love and hope for our futures. Once again from the Sibert family, "Hats off to Steve O'Leary."

Thankful for help

To the Editor:

On the 10th of July, my husband left me in an air conditioned car by the Wayne Bank to do some banking. He was gone for an hour, the motor went dead and I was strapped in, in the Handicapped Parking area.

The car became very hot and I couldn't open doors or unbuckle myself because of my condition. I finally waved to two women customers going into the bank. I asked them to please get my husband. One women stayed with me and cooled me by waving a newspaper.

I wish to thank these two wonderful women for helping me. God Bless

To the Editor:

Soon the voters of the 37th House District will be voting for my successor. This election is of special interest to me because I have represented the people of this district for the past twenty years and now I will be retiring.

I am writing to urge my constituency to consider the candidacy of James A. Kosteva. Jim is currently a planner in township government and is active in the community.

Jim has the abilities and skills to get things accomplished. He is a dedicated, hard-working young man. He is involved in government and displays a genuine interest in people and their problems. Jim is the person that I would like to see fill my shoes here in Lansing.

It is my belief that Jim Kosteva will represent the people of the 37th District well. He is an excellent candidate and I urge you to give him your support.

Not suprising

To the Editor:

The recent boating accident on Belleville Lake in which two people were killed is tragic, but not surprising. We have observed an increasing number of "jet" boats on the lake. The noise from these boats is irritating enough, but the speeds at which they travel are dangerous. The noise and speed may be fun for a few, but certainly not the majority.

"Jet" boats, however, do not represent the only danger on the lake. The day following the boat accident we were in a paddle boat close to shore when a water skier made several attempts to come close enough to splash water on us. The people in the boat and the water skier took great delight in the fact that they finally succeeded. What they failed to think about is what could have happened to us or to the water skier.

We have lived on the lake for four years and find it hard to believe that the same laws that are enforced on land are all but ignored on the lake. It is not unusual to drive from the expressway through Belleville and see a variety of law enforcement officers — state, county, township, city — enforcing traffic laws. On the lake, however, you are lucky to see law enforcement at all.

Knowing our city has received national attention for being a safe place to live is great — let's give our lake the same reputation.

Al and Janet Black,
Belleville

Section was overdue

To the Editor:

I was glad to see your special section on girls in sports. I think it was over-due for The Associated Newspapers.

The age of the female jock is here. I would hope to see local coverage of these young ladies starting this fall. Your competitor is doing a good job; join or beat them.

You won't find a better value than a Xerox used copier or used Memorywriter typewriter.

Because what made them great when they were new is still making them great.

Our used copiers can:
- Copy on plain, ordinary paper.
- Reduce.
- Handle oversize documents.
- Give you 20 copies per minute.

Our used Xerox 610 Memorywriter typewriter lets you:
- Make revisions instantly without retyping entire pages.
- Store addresses and often-used phrases.
- Upgrade as your needs change.

All machines come with a 30-day, limited warranty and are eligible for Xerox service plans.

So hurry down. Or call 800-847-7811. In New York State call 1-800-847-7800.

And see why a Xerox used deal is probably better than the deals you're used to.

HOW TO WEAR A SEAT BELT

YOU CAN BE BOTH SECURE AND COMFORTABLE IN YOUR CAR.

It's been proved over and over that seat belts at least double your chances of escaping death or serious injury in a severe accident.

But the freedom of movement allowed by the newer front seat belts has bothered some people. How can the seat belt hold you securely if it appears to have almost no tension?

The fact is, the shoulder belt is designed to restrict your movement only in an emergency. In normal situations, you can lean forward or to the side with little pressure from the shoulder belt.

In an emergency, the belts lock up to hold you in place. The inertial reel makes this possible. That's a mechanism as simple and reliable as gravity (as you can see in the accompanying diagram). Inertial reels have been used since the 1974 model year for the shoulder belt in many GM cars. They allow you complete freedom of movement in normal driving. You can turn easily to check traffic or reach to the glove compartment.

Adjusting your shoulder and lap belt. Even the slight tension you feel from the inertial reel is adjustable so there is almost no pressure. Pull the shoulder belt far enough away from you so that, when you let it go, it comes back flat against your chest. Then pull down slightly on the shoulder portion, about one inch, and let it go again.

Safety experts suggest allowing no more slack on the shoulder belt than absolutely necessary for comfort. Lap belts should be adjusted snugly as low on your hipbones as possible — not higher where they might damage internal organs in a crash.

How the inertial reel works. Your shoulder belt is designed to allow freedom under normal conditions, but to lock automatically and restrain you in a collision.

Ratchet Mechanism

Under normal conditions, the pendulum and locking bar are in their rest positions. The reel which holds the seat belt is free to rotate. As you lean against it, the belt unreels.

Ratchet Mechanism

In emergencies, such as a collision from any direction, the pendulum tilts, forcing the locking bar to engage the ratchet. The reel locks and the seat belt restrains you.

In a collision, lap/shoulder belts, worn properly, distribute the force across the large, strong bones of your hips and torso. Perhaps most important, belts help keep you from being thrown out of the vehicle in an accident.

What if you are pregnant? The American Association for Automotive Medicine says the dangers of being unbelted in a collision during pregnancy are far greater than the slight chance of injury caused by wearing the belts.

Other advantages of belts. By holding you in a proper driving position, the lap belt provides a feeling of control, keeping you in place on rough or curved roads or in an emergency maneuver. Some people even find that the added support makes driving easier on their backs.

Next time you drive, please take a moment to buckle up. Remember, the seat belt is an effective system to help protect you, and it's already part of your car. Why not think of it as your "Life Belt" and use it.

Sophisticated elegance

Massey Cadillac features the Rolls

What's powered by an aluminum alloy 6.7 liter V-8 fuel injection engine and takes 4,000 British craftsmen and engineers between three and four months to build?

A Rolls-Royce, of course. And you don't have to travel to England to see one.

In fact, if you've got $98,500 (Silver Spirit) or $109,000 (Silver Spur) you can do a lot more than just look at the cars, shown by Don Massey of Don Massey Cadillac, Inc., who sells the cars in the Plymouth-Canton area.

"The objectives of the designers were to produce a Rolls-Royce which would be contemporary and aerodynamically efficient, yet retain the sophisticated elegance associated with the company's motor cars," said Massey of the two cars.

Both models are distinguished by the traditional classic styling with, of course, the familiar hand crafted radiator grille and the "Spirit of Ecstasy" emblem.

A connoisseur's dream of craftsmanship and care, the results of maticulous workmanship are worth the effort — half the 86,000 Rolls-Royce cars made since Henry Royce built his first in 1904 are still running today.

Massey noted that a number of special features are incorporated in the Silver Spirit and Silver Spur. The automatic air conditioning system, providing two climate levels in the car and unique to Rolls-Royce, can be adjusted separately between 17 degrees celcius and 33 degrees celcius and, once set, need never be touched again.

"The Silver Spirit and the Silver Spur inherit much that is tried and good and true. They are the result of a unique tradition of patient, individual craftsmanship and attention to detail."

—Don Massey

"With pin tumbler door locks," Massey said, "the odds against a car thief successfully forging a key is 24,000 to one." Another security feature is a transmission lock that is automatically activated when the ignition key is removed.

"The legendary statement that a Rolls-Royce is so quiet that at 60 mph the only sound is the ticking of the electric clock is no longer valid," said Massey.

He points out that the Silver Spirit and Silver Spur features a silent electronic digital display on the instrument panel, which indicates the outside temperature, elapsed time since the start of the journey and the time of day. Even the speedometer is electronic to ensure silence and accuracy.

"The upholstery comes from nine carefully matched hides from cattle that have not been allowed near barbed wire which could mar their skins."

— Don Massey

"Other refinements to make motoring easier," Massey explained, "include a fuel guage that also checks the engine oil level at the touch of a button on the instrument panel." The fuel cap cover also is released by a button.

The two front seats are contoured and are electrically moved up and down, fore and aft and through several degrees of tilt. Twin outside rear view mirrors are also electrically controlled from a center console.

"The upholstery of each car comes from nine carefully matched hides from cattle that have not been allowed near barbed wire which could mar their skins," said Massey, adding that the same leather is used to trim the deep pile Wilton carpets which are made from the fleece of a herd of sheep that has been especially bred for hardiness. Even the truck is Wilton-carpeted.

Up to eight invisibly joined pieces of burl walnut are used for each instrument panel and are polished by Rolls-Royce craftsmen to an amber luster that looks like glass and is almost as hard. The right side of each panel mirrors the left and no two cars have an identical pattern.

Rolls-Royce motor cars are given 11 seperate treatments to prevent corrosion and prepare the body surface. Ten or more coats of paint are then applied. Each coat is hand-rubbed. The result is a layer of paint that is two-and-a-half times thicker than that on most cars.

"A final touch on the paintwork is a sweeping coachline deftly applied by hand with a small camel hair brush," Massey said.

Over the years, he explained, the ride and roadholding of Rolls-Royce cars have improved by the introduction of compliant front suspension and other modifications. On the current models, rear suspension, incorporating gas springs, adjusts the ride to the load and improves ride and cornering. Suspension testing was carried out on a bump rig designed by Henry Royce himself in the early 1900's. Rolls-Royce engineers say that so far no one has devised anything better, so the rig continues in use.

"The Silver Spirit and Silver Spur inherit much that is tried and good and true," Massey said. "They are the result of a unique tradition of patient, individual craftsmanship, and attention to detail."

The Silver Spirit is priced at $98,500; the Silver Spur at $109,000.

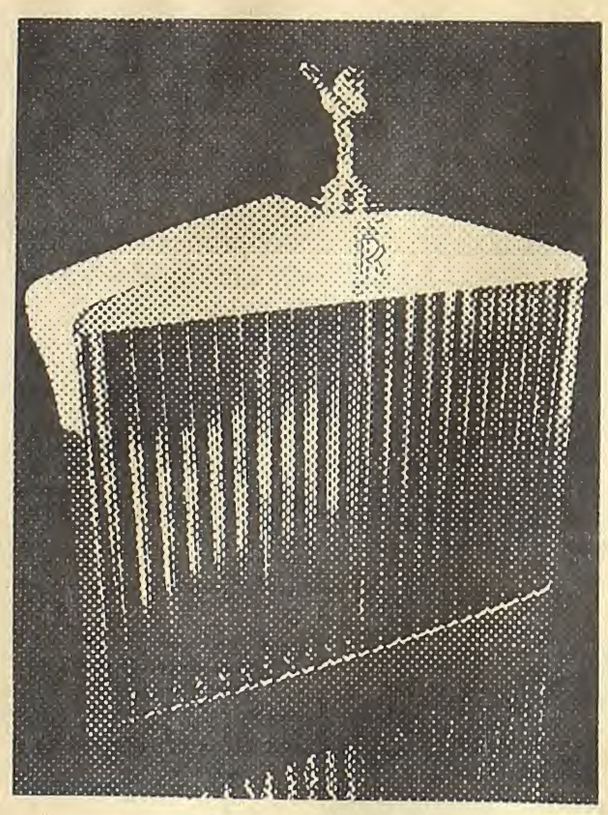
A Rolls is a Rolls

Are you looking for sophisticated elegance in a motor car? Then visit Don Massey Cadillac in Plymouth, which is showcasing the final product of three to four months work by 4,000 craftsmen, the Rolls-Royce. Massey recently introduced the British-made car to his dealership and had Rolls-Royce Zone Manager David Carmichael on hand for its introduction. Joining Carmichael at the ceremony was Massey Cadillac Business Manager Roger Rivard.

There are only 10 people in the world who know how to make the Rolls-Royce grille.



You don't know Dennis Jones. Pity. Because Dennis is a rarity in this world—a master craftsman of the old school.

Dennis Jones is a man who uses his extraordinary skill to magically sculpt by hand a fair amount of cold steel into the sparkling silver grille of the finest motor car in the world.

The Rolls-Royce.

Dennis Jones typifies the small band of rare craftsmen who practically hand build the Rolls-Royce.

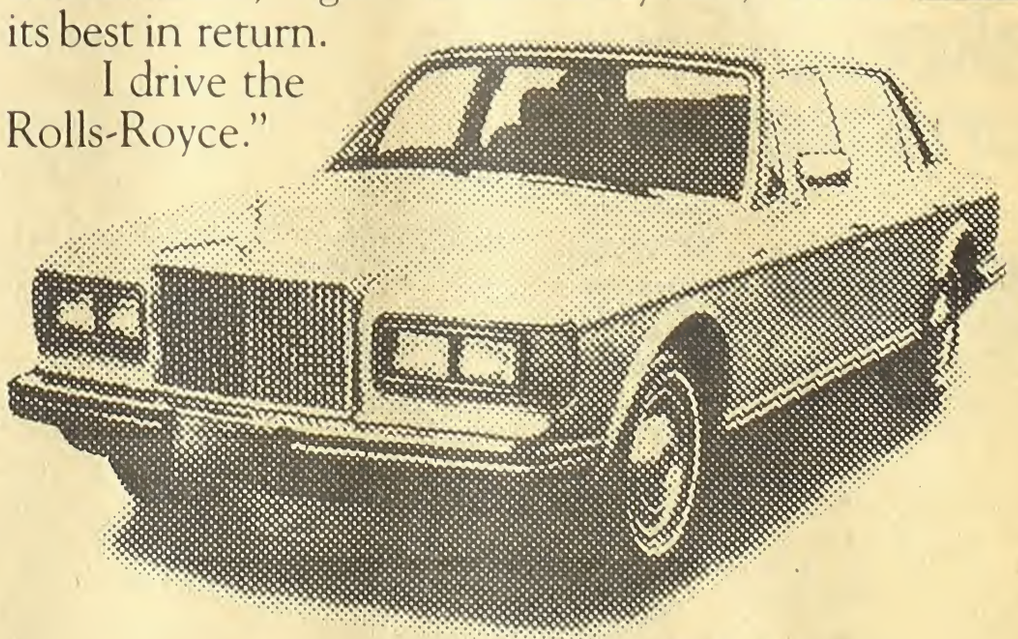
This is why we can say without hesitation:

While ordinary cars may come in and out of vogue, the Rolls-Royce lives forever.

The work of Dennis Jones and master craftsmen like him will produce a motor car that Charles Stewart Rolls or Frederick Henry Royce would be proud to have bear their names.

A motor car to be driven into the next century by someone of great accomplishment who believes, "I give the world my best, I desire its best in return.

I drive the Rolls-Royce."



Rolls-Royce. Simply the best motor car in the world.

© Rolls-Royce Motors, Inc. 1984. The names "Rolls-Royce," and "Silver Spur" and the mascot, badge, and radiator grille are registered trademarks, as are the Bentley name, mascot, and badge.

1984 SPIRIT

This motor car typifies the Rolls Royce standard of cars built to last into the next century. The classic 4 door sedan is priced at $98,500.

1984 SPUR

Like the Spirit this 4 door sedan is an example of fine Englishcraftsmanship. The Spur is 4 inches longer than the Spirit and is priced at $109,000.

1984 CAMARGUE

One of the rarest Rolls-Royce motor cars. Only about 20 of these sporty 2 door sedans are imported to the Uniteed States each year. The Camargue is priced at $150,600.

soon to wed

Boner—Tyler

Mr. and Mrs. Franklin Boner of Wayne have annoucned the forthcoming marriage of their daughter, Kimberly Faye, to Michael James Tyler, the son of Mr. and Mrs. Richard Tyler of Westland.

The bride-elect is a 1981 graduate of Wayne Memorial High School and is presently a senior at Eastern Michigan University, where she is majoring in accounting.

Her fiance is a 1979 graduate of Wayne Memorial High School and is employed at Stahl Manufacturing in Plymouth.

Kimberly Boner

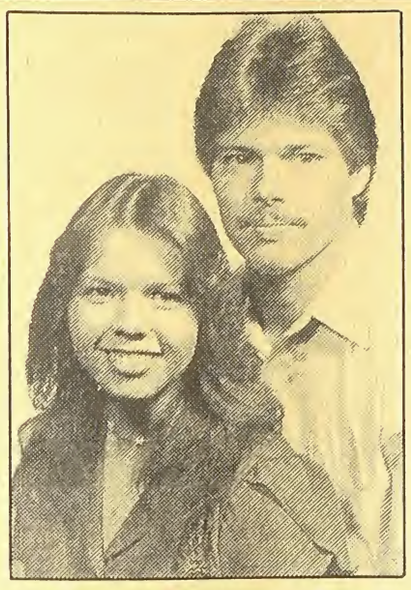
Following a honeymoon in Atlantic City, New Jersey, the couple will reside in Wayne.

Hardway--Luttman

An Aug. 3 wedding is in the offing for Suzanne Marie Hardway of Romulus and Terry James Luttman.

The bride-elect is the daughter of Charles and Marie Hardway of Romulus. She is a 1984 graduate of Romulus Senior High School.

Her fiance is the son of Cindy Stevens and attended Romulus Senior High School.



Suzanne Hardway — Terry Luttman

Nota--Kirby

Wedding bells will be ringing at St. Anthony's Catholic Church in Belleville July 28 for Elizabeth M. Nota of Belleville and Mark T. Kirby of Wyandotte.

The bride-elect is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Richard Nota of Kingwood, Texas, while her fiance is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Marvin Kirby of Wyandotte.

A 1980 graduate of Belleville High School, Miss Nota is attending Eastern Michigan University in Ypsilanti, where she expects to graduate in 1985 with a degree in sports medicine. A member of the EMU cheer team, she is employed at Haab's Restaurant in Ypsilanti.

Her fiance is a 1977 graduate of Wyandotte Roosevelt High School. He received his bachelor of business administration degree from Eastern Michigan University in 1982. A former member of the EMU hockey team, he currently is employed as a manager of the Kinney Shoe Store at Westwood Mall in Jackson.

just married

Brewster—Ash exchange vows

Trinity Lutheran Church in Newberry, Michigan, provided the setting for the recent marriage of Rhonda Brewster, formerly of Belleville, and Bernard C. Ash of Newberry.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Steve Eskert of Bluefield, Wisconsin, and John Brewster of Dexter. The groom is the son of the late Mr. and Mrs. Charles Ash of Newberry.

The double ring ceremony was officiated by Rev. Allen Parks, with 100 guests in attendance. Kenneth Lagman provided the musical accompaniment, singing "Annie's Song," as the bride was escorted to the altar by her brother, Jeffrey Brewster of San Fransico, California. Organist Barbara Michels performed "One Hand, One Heart."

The bride wore a cream-colored street-length crepe dress, with a square neckline trimmed in embroidered lace. She also wore a pearl necklace, given to her by the groom and which belonged to his late mother.

The bride asked Carol Steirs-Allen of Belleville to serve as her maid of honor, while the junior bridesmaid was Wendy Brewster of Newberry. The flowergirl was Mandy Vallier of Newberry. The bride's attendants wore street-length pink crepe gowns, with square necklines and sashes.

As part of the wedding ceremony Mrs. Eskert, the bride's sister and the groom's sister were presented with corsages of pink and blue carnations.

A reception for the newlyweds and their guests was given by the bride's sister and brother-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Brian Birk of Newberry. The bride's book was attended by Mark Salvatore of Newberry, while the three-tiered wedding cake, trimmed in foreget-me-nots, was served by Hazel Holbrook of Newberry.

The newlyweds honeymooned at Round Lake in Curtis, Michigan, before moving into their new home in Newberry.

The new Mrs. Ash is a 1969 graduate of Belleville High School. She also attended Washtenaw Community College.

Her husband is a 1964 graduate of Newberry High School and a 1972 graduate of Tomislon School of Cosmetology in St. Petersburg, Florida. He is employed at the Helen Newberry Joy Hospital.

Amber Simmons — Steven Destrampe

Simmons--Destrampe

An Aug. 3 wedding date has been set by Amber Simmons of Wayne and Steven Destrampe of Westland.

The bride-elect, the daughter of Richard and Doris Simmons of Wayne, is a 1982 graduate of Faithway Baptist High School in Ypsilanti.

Her fiance, the son of Walter and Rita Destrampe of Westland, attended Franklin High School in Livonia.

Haslams visit England

London, Devon and Cornwall are just a few of the places visited by Bert and Helen Haslam of Wayne, during a four-week trip to England and France last month.

The Haslams spent three weeks touring the southwest and northwest lakes districts of England, staying with families in each of the areas, before travelling to France for the D-Day celebration.

In France they stayed with Mr.and Mrs. George Jonchery in the Normandy area, through arrangements made by a cousin. They toured the beaches used in the D-Day Invasion and found the visit to that country the highlight of the trip.

According the Haslam, a retired Wayne Police captain, neither he nor his wife know French and their hosts during the stay could not speak English, making the visit "quite an experience."

new arrivals

My name is Patrick

His name is Patrick and the first child born to Patrick and Pamela Rawson of Charleston, South Carolina, formerly of the Wayne-Westland area.

Patrick made his "debut" at 8:41 p.m. June 19 at the Naval Regional Medical Center in Charleston, weighing in at 7 pounds, 5 ounces, and measuring 21 inches in length.

The grand parents include Mr. and Mrs. Don Husson of Wayne and Mr. and Mrs. James Rawson of Westland, while the great-grandparents are Lawrence Winkle of Punta Gorda, Florida, and Mr. and Mrs. Vincent Husson of Wayne and Ann Wright of Fall River, Massachusetts.

He's called Alex Scott

Marcia and Mike Dyer of Belleville are the proud parents of two boys and a girl following the birth of son No. 2 July 3 at St. Joseph Mercy Hospital in Ann Arbor.

Joining the brood, which includes son Jack and daughter Devon, is Alex Scott, who weighed 6 pounds and 14½ ounces.

Helping to welcome the infant home were grandparents Rev. and Mrs. Jack G. Trembath and Mr. and Mrs. Walter L. Dyer.

It's a boy!

There's a new member of Mark and Marybeth Verrot's family, with the birth of their first child, a son, born July 1 at Oakwood Hsopital.

The New Boston couple welcomed their new offspring at 9:05 p.m. that day. He weighed 7 pounds, 2 ounces, and measured 19½ inches.

Happy-as-can-be grandparents include Ray and Maryann Verrot of Belleville and Grace and Leo Kyko of New Boston.

Dying for a home: MHS wages war against cruelty

"All of this does still get to us," MHS Westland Manager Kathy Blauet says of the animal abuse she and other staff members witness.

seen grown dogs with choke chain collars literally imbedded in their necks because their owners never removed their first puppy collar."

Things at the cruelty center in Detroit are even worse.

"I couldn't work there," Blauet confessed, relating the true story of a German Shepherd who lived after children doused it with lighter fluid and lit it with a match. MHS is also investigating a case of a dog shot five times by its owner.

"It's seeing things like that," Blauet said, "that makes you understand what I wish more people could realize — that a humane death is not the worse thing that can happen to an animal."

One thing worse is pound seizure, the sale of pound-released animals to laboratories for live research.

It has been estimated by the MHS that 20 to 30 Michigan pounds, including the Detroit City Dog Pound, engage in pound seizure, a practice the humane society is fighting to outlaw.

"We don't sell any animals for research," Blauet said simply, "and we don't like people who do."

For the shelter involved, pound seizure is an easy solution to the surplus pet population.

For the animals, former pets who may have been in the homes of their owners a few days earlier, the practice begins a nightmare whose only end is a welcome death.

"One way those involved in pound seizure try to defend the practice is by saying that the animals would otherwise be euthanized," Eileen Liska, MHS legislative and research assistant, explained.

"The truth is, if they had an aggressive adoption program, the shelters could adopt many of these pets and make money as well. Right now many pounds are paying dealers to come and pick up the animals."

The MHS is outspoken in criticism and attempts to outlaw pound seizure, which is neither mandated nor prohibited by state law.

"We've got a fight on our hands because we're taking on, not only big business, but the entire power structure," Liska said. "What it's all about is making money through exploiting others — and those making the money aren't going to give up that power without a struggle."

What it's also about is research, and the suffering that animals are subjected to in the name of medical advancement and technology.

According to Liska and other researchers (including a growing number of scientists themselves,) live animal research may have more to do with money than medicine.

A multi-billion dollar industry, the majority of live animal research is performed, not in the bio-medical field, but by private industry, including cosmetic and pharmaceutical firms.

Not only is much of the lab work performed on animals repetitive (tests studying the effects of malnutrition on animals, for example, have been repeated at least 1,850 times), but many are now questioning the reliability of results.

Former pets have unknown genetic and medical histories which make them unsuitable for accurate lab testing, the MHS has stated.

Since the artificial lab environment changes normal animal behavior, conclusions formed as a result of those behaviors, many say, may also be distorted.

Add to the humane society's already strong case their arguments that animal models are rarely an accurate substitution for human beings and that there are alternatives to many types of live animal research.

In one case the lives of countless pets were saved when a videotape of an animal being poisoned was shown to college students instead of sacrificing an animal in each class.

Others were not so fortunate:

- In wound experiments, researchers fired BB pellets traveling at 300 feet per second into the brains of monkeys. Forty-five percent of the animals died within six hours.
- Kittens injected with cocaine displayed tremors, loss of coordination, limb stiffness and convulsions, behavior monitored by researchers.
- Confined to small cages, the vocal cords of dogs and other lab animals are routinely severed to stifle their cries.
- Monkeys have been automatically struck on the head with a machine and then cut open to discover brain damage levels caused by forceful blows

As the issue heats up and gains increasing public interest, the research community and humanitarians prepare for their biggest and most volatile battles.

"The public is now beginning to challenge the people in the medical community — people we previously gave our blind faith to," Liska said.

"We're finally challenging and questioning our authority figures, a shift in attitude that began in the 1960s. The animal rights movement is a natural outgrowth of other movements — civil rights, women's rights, environmental — and more are joining.

"Even members of congress are now telling researchers that the days when they could go into the lab and close the door and do whatever they wanted are over.

The research community is fighting back, Liska said, with the fervor and attitude that any power structure uses when it is threatened.

"The arguments are the same as in the past — they're saying that these aren't human beings, only animals. the same way others have exploited blacks and women by saying that these groups are biologically inferior.

"Racism, sexism, now speciesism — it's all the same mentality.

"As we become bolder and more articulate, the scientists become increasingly defensive and outrageous in their accusations against us. They'd like to paint us as wackos. But the truth is, we're not little old ladies in tennis shoes saving cats in trees.

"We're not even saying that we want to put an end to all animal research. We are people from all walks of life and all professions who would like to see unnecessary suffering end.

What's being done

Michigan Humane Society officials support legislation to outlaw pound seizure and overhaul Michigan's anti-cruelty laws.

According to the MHS, 78 pieces of legislation prohibiting pound seizure have been submitted, the strongest appearing in Massachusetts — the home of Harvard and MIT, and an area dominated by research.

The MHS is also battling the Jackson County Dog Pound, whose representatives recently said that 83 percent of those who submitted animals to the pound opted for research rather than euthenasia.

"We are concerned that this is being offered as a way of resolving the pound seizure problem," Liska said. "Not only did we find discrepancies in their figures (people missing from the survey and others counted several times), but people were told they would have to pay to keep their animals out of research, while the research option was offered free."

To learn more about MHS and what you can do to help its fight against pound seizure, send your name, address and telephone number on a post card to Eileen Liska, Michigan Humane Society, 7410 Chrysler Drive, Detroit, MI 48211; or call 872-3400, ext. 365.

When there are not enough homes to go around, smaller, younger dogs stand a better chance of being adopted.

ELECT JAMES M. REEVES FOR 21st DISTRICT
STATE REPRESENTATIVE

Jim Reeves pledges to continue his opposition to landfills which he has been doing for the past 10 years.

As a public servant, he pledges to work for lower taxes and to abolish excess and wasteful spending to balance the budget and work to try to bring more of the 21st District revenue back into the District for secondary road improvement and public services.

Jim Reeves participates as a member of the Wayne County Waste Planning committee; the Environmental Health Board, and the Air Pollution Advisory Board of SemCog. Jim is an officer in the Sumpter Social Civic Club, Belleville Lions Club, and the 15th District Democratic Party. Jim is a decorated Veteran of World War 2 and a member of the V.F.W.

VOTE AUG. 7

PAID FOR BY THE COMMITTEE TO ELECT JAMES M. REEVES, 44180 HARRIS RD., SUMPTER TWP.

Richard and Nancy Carey returned home last Sunday after a two-week trip through the East. After attending the National Square Dance Convention at Baltimore, Md., they traveled north into Massachusetts where they visited "The House of Seven Gables" in Salem and other points of interest; enroute home they stopped at Niagara Falls.

Mr. and Mrs. William Emerson, Billy and Betsy, returned home Friday, July 6, from Frankfort, Germany, where they had spent three weeks with the former's brother, Ltc. Smauel Emerson, his wife, Susan, and their children, Mathew and Sarah.

While there they visited Rottenbert, Heidelburg, a trip down the Rhine, and other places of interest. Then with sister-in-law, Susan and children, they spent eight days in Italy, where they toured Rome, saw the Pope, Florence, Pisa, Pompeii, Salerno and Venice, where they enjoyed a gondola trip.

Mrs. Lewis Bravatto and daughter, Mrs. Jim Alveroe of Dexter, returned home on Sunday of last week after visiting relatives, an aunt, Mrs. Rudy Erickson, at Iron Mountain, and the Joseph Bravatto family at Wakefield, where they attended the Centennial Celebration.

They also journeyed to Florence, Wisc., where they attended the Gremore family reunion held at Base Lake Park on July 1.

The Potts Family Reunion was held Sunday, July 8, at the home of Penny and Lewis Allen at Fraser, with 62 members present.

The oldest member present was Mrs. John Potts from Windsor, Ont., and the youngest was five-month-old Heather Handlon, daughter of Mary and Matt Handlon from Mount Clemens.

Joan Vernon from Great Falls, Montana, traveled the farthest distance. Others came from St. Charles, Ill., Farmington, St. Clair Shores, Grosse Pointe Farms, Warren, Westland, and Belleville.

A special guest was Amy Warner from Midland, who will join the family as an August bride.

Games were provided for the children and all enjoyed visiting and feasting on roast pig, which the host had provided. The occasion was named the "Penny Potts Roast."

On Sunday, July 8, Mrs. Margaret Saunders of Liberty Street accompanied her son, Lynn and wife to Warren, where they were among the many guests at a graduation party honoring the former's nephew, Michael Duche, son of the Dominic Duches of Warren. The gala affair, which was attended by more than 200 relatives and friends was held at the Odd Fellow Hall.

Mrs. Elda Bohl was hostess on Sunday, July 8, to a group of Past Matrons and Past Patrons of O.E.S. of Wayne County at a "Pot Luck" dinner. All were Matrons and Patrons at the same time that Elda and her late husband, Erwin, were in the East in Belleville Chapter. Guests came from Dearborn, Garden City, Plymouth and Wayne.

Roberta Welt spent several days this past week in St. Louis, Mo., visiting a friend.

Mrs. Ruth Smith of West Wabash Street and her granddaughter, Wendy Smith, a student at MSU, recently returned home from Alexandria, Va., where they had spent a few days with Wendy's mother, Mrs. Danna Smith. While there, the Dr. James Buck family from Baltimore, Md., spent a day with them.

A former Borgman Street resident, Ruth Hall, now Mrs. Edward Cochran, and family from Lutz, Fla., has been calling on friends in the area this past week with her husband.

Kelly Potts from Carol Stream, Ill., spent the weekend with her grandmother, Mrs. Stewart Potts. Joan Vernon from Great Falls, Mon., has also been a guest of her aunt, Mrs. Potts.

Mrs. Dorothy Kellas, of Margery Street attended a meeting of the Strand-Weeks Club at the home of France and Herbert Strand of Jackson on Sunday, July 8. Tom and Mary Weeks of Vicksburg were co-hosts.

'Finished product'

Members of Wyandotte Savings Bank's Board of Directors Ad Hoc Committee, which gave "life" to Omni Banker 4, gathered recently to view the "finished product." Mary E. Meyer, Cecile Gorno and James Mush joined with Susan Childres, project manager, as Karen Peterson Dingell pointed out one of the features of the OmniBanker 224, the latest, state-of-the-art 24-hour banking system, comprised of drive- and walk-up units. All drive-up locations offer comfort, convenience and security by allowing a wide range of banking transactions to be completed all while seated within the car. The walk-up facility at the Biddle and Elm office in downtown Wyandotte features a card-access outer door, which again provides maximum security for WSB customers. Free demonstrations are being offered at all permanent Omni Banker 24 locations: Main Office at Biddle and Eureka, downtown office at Biddle and Elm, 1909 Fort Street at Northline, 23150 Van Born Road, Dearborn Heights, and 7700 Telegraph, Taylor. Additional,temporary demonstration units are currently located at: 1028 Oak Street at Tenth; and 29501 Eureka Road near Middlebelt, in Romulus. Demonstrators will be stationed at all locations throughout the month of July, providing ongoing Saturday morning demonstrations from 9 a.m. to 12 noon at all permanent Omni Banker 24 units, in addition to regular banking hours.

Free demonstrations will be available to all Wyandotte Street and Art Fair participants and visitors, as well.

COMPANY TRIES TO FUDGE ON REBATE

Dear Letter Writer:

I bought one of those cordless telephones that gives you a rebate. You have to send them the box top, the registration card and the receipt. I did all that and then they sent me a letter, telling me that I had not returned the registration card. This is ridiculous as my name and address were on the card and if I had not sent it, they could not have written back to me. Just on principle, I want the $30 rebate. Can you help me get it from them.

Dear Cordless Telephone Company:

I am in receipt of your transmittal of May 15, 1984, photocopy enclosed for your convenience.

In January of 1984, I purchased a Cordless Telephone from you, which purchase was coupled with a representation by you that there was a $30 rebate forthcoming upon meeting certain criteria.

In January of 1984, I mailed the following items to you:

1. A flap from the telephone box
2. A receipt from the Department Store for the purchase.
3. A properly completed product registration card.

As is obvious, your letter indicates that I " . . . did not include the completed product registration card."

If this were the case, you would not have had my name and address and, therefore, would not have been able to correspond with me.

Please accept this letter as a demand for an immediate issuance of the $30 rebate. I look forward to receipt of this check by return mail.

Sincerely, DBC

RESOLUTION: Two weeks later DBC received the following letter from the Cordless Telephone Company which amicably resolved this matter.

Dear Telephone Customer:

Thank you very much for participating in our Cordless Rebate Program. As you might realize, the objective of our program was to provide an opportunity to as many people as possible to experience the convenience of cordless conversation.

Due to the guidelines of our program, which our outside contractor was obliged to monitor, your claim for rebate was initially disqualified.

However, we do appreciate your purchase of the Telephone product. As such, we have reviewed your specific request and would like to issue your rebate check. Please accept our apologies for any inconvenience caused to you. We sincerely appreciate your business.

Thank you.

Sincerely,
Telephone Company

COMMENT FROM THE LETTER WRITER:

This is, in my experience, a perfect example of customer intimidation. I suspect that this company actually sends very few rebates because of their harassing tactics. The odds are in their favor that the average person will not write the letter and demand what is rightfully his or hers.

"A SUPERVISOR WHO WILL FIGHT FOR YOU"
• Any transfer of sewer and water money to the General Fund will have to be at least approved at an Annual Meeting.
• I think that it is a disgrace that Western Wayne Co., the birth place of the automobile and the arsenal of democracy still is mud-bound every spring like it was 75 years ago.
• Transferring water and sewer fund amounts to taxation without a vote of the people.
• Many properties in Huron Township are over assessed for property taxes. At present there are so few valid property sales in Huron Township that it is impossible to arrive at fair market and values. I will correct this problem if elected.
• It also appears that our police department is attempting to take over our township board. This manuever does not in my opinion serve the best interests of this township.
• We will also return to the days of more viable annual meetings.
• I do not have any relatives in this township or do I owe any particular group any favors. My campaign is being financed solely by family funds.

Uncle Louie's

New restaurant evokes memories

By JOE RIPPA
Special to Playtime

Uncle Louie must be smiling.

His sons George and Nick Smith have opened the sparkling new Uncle Louie's Dining Saloon at 25641 Plymouth Road, just east of Beech Daly, in Redford Township.

They named the place in honor of their late father, who for almost 30 years operated the legendary Adams Bar on West Lafayette across from the Detroit News.

Bright and polished, and decorated in the Roaring Twenties motif, Unce Louie's is far more elegant (fancy) than was the Adams.

Nevertheless, with its shiny brass railing and mementos of the past, it evokes memories of the old Adams, where Louie Smith lent a sympathetic ear — and often money — to many a newspaperman down on his luck and in his cups.

When Louis Smith died at age 81 in May 1972, his obituary in the Detroit News was headlined: "A generation of reporters mourn friend Louis Smith."

The reporter wrote: "Pacifying and almost always smiling, he listened to the troubles of a generation of reporters, most of whose bylines now are almost forgotten.

"He also heard the talk of relaxing politicans, sports figures and business leaders ...

"So inviting was the old-fashioned barroom — with its dark woodwork, high ceilings and cooling fans — that it became an informal annex of the newspaper and the WWJ studios next door, long before there was a Detroit Press Club."

Indeed. George Smith recalls that a Detroit News city editor, having to send a reporter out of town on a big story during a weekend when the paper's business office was closed, called the Adams and said: "Give Harris $1,000. We'll reimburse you Monday."

Anecdotes about the Adams could fill a book.

"At least one reporter used the Adams as his mailing address," the reporter wrote on Louis Smith's death. "And there are some pretty clear recollections of a certain character riding a race horse into the place, minus the excuse of so much as a bet."

Louie Smith retired when the bar was torn down in 1963 as part of an urban renewal program. The new WDIV Channel 4 building now covers the site.

Uncle Louie's Dining Saloon is the result of an extensive remodeling project the past several weeks of the former Harrow's bar and restaurant.

The new restaurant seats 138 patrons and has a separate banquet room with facilities to accommodate 100.

"Our goal always has been to serve gourment food and drinks at workingman's prices," said George Smith, who, with his brother Nick, operates two other restaurants.

Sneaky Pete's, a popular spot at Farmington and Five Mile in Livonia, opened three years ago. Smith Bros. & Co., the largest of the three places, opened two years ago on West Maple, near Crooks Road, in Troy.

The Smith family soon will break ground for a fourth restaurant at Warren and Newburgh in Westland. It will be named Smith Bros. & Co. (No. 2).

Uncle Louie's opened the last week in June. Information on featured entrees and services can be obtained by calling George Smith at 937-8220.

George Smith (right) serves a drink to Nick Fakaros and Susan Vlangos, the granddaughter of the late Louis Smith, who for years operated the legendary Adams Bar in downtown Detroit. George Smith has named his new restaurant, Uncle Louie's, in honor of his father. Smith also plans to break ground for a new restaurant soon in Westland. Uncle Louie's is located at 25641 Plymouth Road in Redford Township.

Annual 4-H fair parade set Aug. 5 in Belleville

Some 100 units will participate in the 38th annual Wayne County 4-H Fair Parade, scheduled to begin at 12:30 p.m. Aug. 5 at Columbia Street and the Belleville High School parking lot.

The parade, which will kick off the annual Wayne County 4-H Fair, wil proceed east on Columbia to Main; north on Main through town, crossing I-94 to the North Service Drive, and west to Quirk Road and the site of the fairgrounds.

Wayne County Executive William Lucas will serve as parade marshal and a number of state and local officials are expected to participate as well as various high school bands, according to Betty Hamilton of Romulus.

Life after Squeeze

DIFFORD & TILBROOK (A&M)

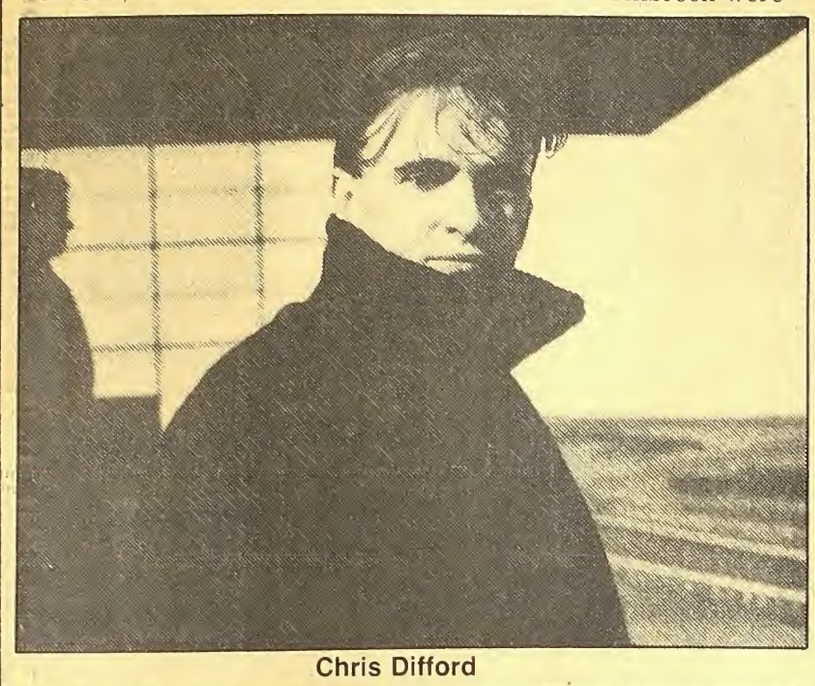
For lovers of pure pop, last year's announced breakup of Squeeze was an unbridled kick to the rib cage, as one of the best and most interesting rock bands on the face of the earth disappeared. No more "Tempted," no more "Black Coffee In Bed," and no more "Another Nail In My Heart."

It was with happier hearts that we learned that Chris Difford and Glenn Tilbrook were going to continue on together musically (sans Squeeze, of course), but one wondered just how they would pull it off. Not that they would have trouble, because the two of them WERE Squeeze, but if they were moving away from the group thematically, which of the many musical modes they've mastered would they pick up on now?

The answer is, as it was with their former group, "a lot of 'em." This debut duo LP is similar in concept to many of Squeeze's albums in its absolute diversity. From the rocking "Hope Fell Down" to the eerie "Apple Tree."

Difford and Tillbrook were often placed on a pedestal of praise concerning their songwriting talents, garnishing praise from prestigious people like Frank Sinatra (who they are writing a song for) and Paul McCartney. They've been compared favorably to other songwriters, particularly Lennon-McCartney. Not all that many disagreed very vehemently, at least those that were familiar with Squeeze.

The danger here — the temptation — is for Difford and/or Tilbrook and/or producer Tony Visconti to overproduce the record. For the most part, they overcame, but four tunes bear the dreaded words "strings arranged by" on the album jacket. Happily, while a couple of the tunes are brought down a tad — particularly the single "Action Speaks Louder Than Words," which yearns for a sparser sound — the others aren't hindered by them and, in the case of the album's best straightahead rocker "Hope Fell Down," they even help a bit.



Chris Difford

Glenn Tilbrook

Tilbrook's voice is always a joy to hear, as unique as it is tuneful, and he shines here. Lyrics like "Concocted rumours by out of tuners" are proof positive that the sly and wry humor of the songwriting pair is still alive and well, while these show the finely-crafted prolificness:

You can't hurt the girl
her heart has been broken
She cried for a week the wound remains open
Her heart turned to oak
she wept like the willow
You can't hurt the girl
And not cry on her pillow

This album is not by any means the best album this pair have been responsible for — two or three of Squeeze's output are superior. But is is a very, very good album that deserves a wide audience and will hopefully get it. After all, if this album rates an 8, you can't hold it against it that "Sweets From a Stranger" rated a 10, can you?

John Glenn High graduate performs at Caucus Club

Pam Wallace, a 1977 graduate of John Glenn High School, will perform through July at the Caucus Club in downtown Detroit.

Selected Michigan Junior Miss and runner-up American Junior Mill in 1977, Wallace will play the piano and sing a variety of contemporary songs and show tunes during her solo act. She will appear from 6 until 11 p.m. Tuesday, Wednesday and Thursday and from 7:30 to 12:30 p.m. on weekends.

Wallace, who also workes as an intern for the "Good Afternoon Detroit" show on Channel 7, has performed at a number of clubs, including the Ponchartrain Hotel, Renaissance Center and the Hyatt Regency in Dearborn.

During her high school days, she was a member of the National Honor Society and also performed in school plays. Wallace, 25, earned a bachelor of arts degree in telecommunications and marketing from Eastern Michigan University and resides in Ann Arbor.

She is the daughter of Bessie and William Wallace of Harvey Street in Westland.

The Caucus Club is located at 150 West Congress St. (Penobscot Building) and reservations may be placed by calling 965-4970.

Dance events slated at Willow park

Two dance events will be held at the Outdoor Dance Center located at Willow Metropark near New Boston the weekend of July 20 and July 21.

Ken Crowley, well-known square dance caller, will be on hand for square dancing — including beginning and intermediate lessons — at the Outdoor Dance Center from 7:30 p.m. to 9:45 p.m. Friday.

"FOXFIRE" will provide music for dancing at the Outdoor Dance Center from 8 to 11:30 p.m. Saturday.

The dance programs are free except for the required Vehicle Entry Permit (Annual: regular — $7, senior citizens — $2 or daily — $2).

Beacon School serves needs of handicappers

The program at the Beacon Day Center combine the delivery of educational and counseling services from 25 school districts who have experienced academic and social adjustment problems in their community schools. It is designed to facilitate the development of responsible behavior and promote a school experience that is rewarding and enriching.

Four levels of instruction are offered; preschool, elementary, junior high and high school. All students participate in five academic classes daily, as well as a social learning program, and individual, group and family counseling.

Since the beginning of May, students in the junior high have been preparing reports and projects for "Expo 84," The exhibits represent American history from the first exploration of the Americas through the Civil War era.

Preparation for the Expo consisted of the students reading a variety of related novels and engaging in historical discussions.

Expo '84 winners

One small step...15 years later and still discovering

By WILLIAM G. SCHULZ
Smithsonian News Service

In a decade when riots rocked college campuses and a war that began to appear pointless strained the nation's conscience, one moment — possibly the apex of technological achievement in this century — gave welcome relief from the heartache and confusion. On July 20, 1969, man walked on the moon.

The feat seems no less spectacular at a time, 15 years later, when mention of a Space Shuttle launch on the morning news sounds almost routine. But while history will most remember those first steps by Neil Armstrong, Apollo II and the subsequent lunar landings left a scientific legacy that continues to stimulate researchers today.

Apollo did not start out as an exercise in science, however. The goal was as political as the rest of the late 1960s — the United States was in a furious race to the moon with the Soviet Union. What did exist was an opportunity — seized by some members of the scientific community — to gain information about our nearest planetary body, our sun and the earth.

Before Apollo, "we knew the basics about the moon," said Dr. Ted A. Maxwell, chairman of the Center for Earth and Planetary Studies at the Smithsonian's National Air and Space Museum in Washington, D.C. For instance, he explained, geologists and other scientists thought the moon was several billion years old. They also had a good idea of its composition — basaltic lava and other rock that forms when molten material slowly cools and solidifies. But there were many unknowns.

Apollo II and the following five moon missions gave direct information about three major areas of interest to lunar scientists: the exact age of the moon, whether water or life might exist there and the moon's internal structure — whether or not it has some type of core.

"Determining the age of the moon was Apollo's most important finding," Maxwell said. Analysis of rock samples from Apollo 17, the last lunar mission, showed that the moon is about 4.6 billion years old — nearly as old as the solar system itself.

But that didn't surprise scientists as much as the age of rock samples from the Sea of Tranquility, where Apollo II's lunar module "Eagle" landed. These samples of basaltic lava rock — formed by the moon's volcanic activity — are approximately 3 billion years old. Prior to Apollo, some geologists thought that this rock formed only 100 to 150 million years ago. Analysis of rock samples from other large, dark regions of the moon — called marias or seas — has pushed back the known date of the moon's volcanic era even further, to about 3.8 billion years.

The Apollo missions showed that life does not exist on the moon, and lunar samples have revealed that carbon — elemental for organic life as we know it — doesn't exist there in enough quantities for a good crack at starting any. As for water on the moon: "Dry as a bone," Maxwell said. Some lunar scientists have argued that water may exist in frozen caps at the moon's poles, but additional exploration of the moon's surface would be needed to prove that conclusively.

An array of seismometers from Apollo II and the other moon missions also confirmed what some geologists had suspected. Seismically, the moon is extremely quiet, Maxwell said. Compared to the earth, with its shifting and colliding plates on top of a mantle and molten core, the moon's surface is motionless. In fact, what low-level rumblings the moon does create are so weak and unrevealing that it took deliberate explosions and the dropping of a used Apollo rocket stage on the lunar surface to provide the shock waves required for the seismometers to "hear" echoes from the moon's interior.

These studies showed that, like the earch, the moon has distinct "layers." The outer layer or crust extends down about 37 miles to more dense rock in the mantle. Below the mantle, more than 500 miles deep, lies a mysterious interior. This deepest part of the moon could be solid or a hot, semi-molten layer of sulfur and iron. Questions about the nature of the core and other aspects of the moon can only be answered by collecting more rock samples for chemical analysis and by comparing that data with the moon's heat flow.

The earth and moon also have the same kinds of minerals.

"But it's not as if you've seen one planet and you've seen them all," said Dr. Donald S. Burnett, a geochemist at the California Institute of Technology. In addition to the early cessation of the moon's geologic activity, he pointed out that the moon also has little or no atmosphere. Metals like iron, then, don't oxidize or rust on the moon. Furthermore, the lack of water means that many mineral compounds, which form on earth, are absent on the moon.

The moon, unlike its parent planet, has vast numbers of impact craters. Caused by the violent bombardment of meteorites early in the solar system's history, the craters provide a record which no longer exists on earth. Geologic activity on our planet has destroyed most traces of such primordial chaos. Of the earth and moon, Burnett said: "I'm continually struck by the differences, rather than by the similarities."

Today, large meteorites hitting the moon are a rare event. But the moon still faces a daily barrage of cosmic dust — "micrometeorites" — that "gardens" or breaks down and mixes lunar "soil." Technically, the moon does not really have soil, a term which implies that rock has been broken down by weathering and other processes that don't occur on the moon.

According to Dr. Robert Manka, a former NASA scientist now with the National Research Council, the studies gave detailed information on the composition of this wind and, by comparison with lunar rock samples, which also trap the wind, information about how it and the sun have changed over time.

One Apollo experiment, lunar laser ranging, continues today. Apollo astronauts placed specialy designed "retroreflectors" on the moon's surface. A retroreflector, said Dr. Peter J. Shelus, a physicist at the McDonald Observatory of the University of Texas in Austin, resembles a "cigar box" with an assortment of small mirrors recessed in the surface. The mirrors are set at 90 degree angles to each other so that laser beams fired from earth observatories are reflected directly back to their point of origin. Scientists study the time delay between the firing and return of the beam to determine a variety of facts about the earth and the moon, as well as to solve sophisticated problems in physics.

Three important achievements have thus far been aided by the lasers and reflectors. One of the first determined a more accurate distance from the earth to the orbiting moon. Before Apollo, Shelus said, that distance was known only to within a few hundred meters. Now, after 15 years of continued study, he said, "we know the orbital distance of the moon down to a few tens of centimetors."

The laser experiment that received the most attention, Shelus said, tested a portion of Einstein's General Theory of Relativity, known as the equivalence principle. Testing the principle involved distinguishing between and providing values for two types of mass: inertial mass, the resistance of an object to being set in motion, and gravitational mass, which determines the gravitational attraction of planetary bodys like the moon and earth. In theory, the two types of mass should be equal. Einstein would be happy to know that the lasers and retroreflectors have corroborated his thinking.

Currently, the laser-ranging experiments are being used in studies of the earth's rotation and the movement of its plates. Unlike the other Apollo experiments, which had a limited lifetime, as long as the mirrors aren't covered by lunar dust or destroyed by some unforeseen event such as a meteorite hit, they will continue to provide important data about the solar system and its mechanics.

Knowledge of the moon gained by Apollo and technology, developed in conjunction with the Space Shuttle missions, could mean big economic payoffs from moon-based industries, according to Dr. David Criswell, an idenpendent consultant on space development. Criswell envisions a day when such valuable ores as titanium can be mined profitably from the moon's surface and huge power stations can be constructed to beam electrical power back to earth.

"We just didn't know these things (were possible) until we went to the moon," Crisell said.

Fixin' chicken

Members of the Romulus Rotary Club will stoking up the barbeque grills Saturday, July 21, at Kennedy Park, at Five Points in Romulus for its annual Chicken Barbeque. The cost will be $4 for chicken, cole slaw, chips, beans, roll and butter and drink. The barbeque will be from 12 noon to 6 p.m. and will feature the barbeque talents of Ron Hopson (left) and Bob Mach.

Regular Meeting June 11, 1984

The Regular Meeting of the Romulus Board of Education held Monday, June 11, 1984, was called to order by President Bales at 7:00 P.M.
Roll call showed all Members present. All Administrators were present.
Pledge of Allegiance was led by President Bales.
APPROVAL OF AGENDA:
Dr. Bedell recommended the following changes in the Agenda: Add Item C.1. "Summer Recreation Busses", Item C.2. "Summer Lunch Program" and Item C.3. "Disposal of Old Textbooks" under Report of the Superintendent.

6/1/84 Moved by Wilkerson supported by Marvicsin to approve the Agenda as amended. Ayes: 7. Nays: 0. Motion carried.

APPROVAL OF MINUTES OF PREVIOUS MEETING:

6/2/84 Moved by Campbell supported by Marvicsin to approve the Minutes of May 14, 1984, as presented. Ayes: 7. Nays: 0. Motion carried.

COMMUNICATIONS AND EXPRESSIONS FROM THE PUBLIC:
Secretary Langley read aloud a letter of thanks from Mayor McAnally and a letter from Romulus Association of School Administrators regarding negotiations. The RASA letter will be referred to Administration for appropriate action.
REPORT OF THE SUPERINTENDENT:
Personnel Actions
Dr. LeCesne presented the following personnel actions for Board approval:
A. Leaves of Absence: Caryn Acker, Teacher - Barth, Health Leave, 5/15/84 - 8/31/84; Jan Haynes, Teacher - Sr. High, Sabbatical Leave, 9/1/84 - 1/25/85; Janice Hoover, Bus Driver, Family Illness, 5/25/84 - 6/13/84. B. Resignations: Francine Alexander, Social Worker - Beacon, Eff. 5/10/84; Stacia Shalati, Teacher, Eff. 5/21/84. C. Retirement: Juanita Singleton, Teacher, Eff. 6/15/84. Addendum - A. Employment: David Burnette, NJROTC Instructor (Prob.), Eff. 7/6/84.

6/3/84 Moved by Marvicsin supported by Wilkerson to approve the Personnel Actions and Addendum as presented by Dr. LeCesne. Ayes: 6. Nays: 1 (Bales). Motion carried.

6/4/84 Moved By Berlinn supported by Wilkerson to recognize retirees, Ms. Nettie Whitner with 14 years of service, and Ms. Juanita Singleton with 19 years of service to the Romulus Community Schools. Ayes: 7. Nays: 0. Motion carried.

Bills for Payment

6/5/84 Moved by Berlinn supported by King the Board approve the Bills for Payment as presented by Mr. Carr. Ayes: 7. Nays: 0. Motion carried.

Borrowing for Buses

6/6/84 Moved by Marvicsin supported by Berlinn the Board of Education accept the bid of Manufacturers National Bank at 9.75% interest rate for a $286,345.40 loan to purchase 10 65-passenger buses. Ayes: 7. Nays: 0. Motion carried.

Summer Recreation Buses

6/7/84 Moved by King supported by Langley the Board approve the use of school buses for the Summer Recreation Program at an approximate cost of $2,000.00. Ayes: 7. Nays: 0. Motion carried.

Summer Lunch Program

6/8/84 Moved by Campbell supported by King the Board approve the Free Lunch Program offered by the Wayne County Health Department from June 18 through August 17, 1984, at Merriman and Wick Elementary Schools providing that if disciplinary problems arise the Program may be cancelled at the Board's discretion. Ayes: 6. Nays: 1 (Bales). Motion carried.

(Ms. Nettie Whitner and Ms. Juanita Singleton arrived and Secretary Langley read aloud the Resolutions recognizing their retirement after 14 and 19 years respectively of devoted service to the children of Romulus.)

Disposal of Old Textbooks

6/9/84 Moved by Marvicsin supported by Wilkerson the Board authorize the Administration to distribute surplus Ginn books to the students at the end of the school year. Ayes: 7. Nays: 0. Motion carried.

Summer School Director

6/10/84 Moved by Wilkerson supported by Campbell the Board of Education accept the recommendation of the Superintendent and approve the employment of Assistant Principal, Jesse Meriweather, as Summer School Director for the Summer of 1984 at a salary of $4,000.00. Ayes: 6. Nays: 1 (Bales). Motion carried.

Grade 13 Counselor - Summer

6/11/84 Moved by King supported by Langley the Board approve the recommendation of the Superintendent and authorize the employment of Grade 13 counselor(s) for the summer of 1984; said expense not to exceed $1,200.00. Ayes: 7. Nays: 0. Motion carried.

Band Trip to Cedar Point

6/12/84 Moved by Campbell supported by Berlinn the Board of Education approve the recommendation of the Superintendent and authorize the Cedar Point field trip on Saturday, June 9, 1984, as described in the office memo presented by Dick Kruse, Band Director. Ayes: 7. Nays: 0. Motion carried.

Policy on Employee Use of Computers

6/13/84 Moved by Marvicsin supported by King the Board authorize teachers and related instructional personnel to take home computers during the summer recess to further their personal skills and to utilize for practice while in training, provided said personnel assume full responsibility for any damages or loss that should occur while in their possession. Statement of Indemnity must be signed by each person receiving the Superintendent's (or Assistant Superintendent's) approval to borrow a computer. Ayes: 7. Nays: 0. Motion carried.

Discussion of Cogswell III

6/14/84 Moved by Campbell supported by King the Board of Education attempt to sell the Cogswell III home without the help of a realtor for thirty (30) days. Ayes: 7. Nays: 0. Motion carried.

Items of Interest from the Superintendent
Dr. Bedell discussed the following items of interest with the Board of Education: 1) B & E Report - High School; 2) Worker's Comp Report; 3) Letters of Commendation; 4) Teacher Letter to the Board; 5) Chapter I Allocation Letter; 6) City Letter on Clean-up Day; 7) Writers Workshop Report; and 8) City Letter on Youth Basketball.
Questions and/or Concerns of Board Members
There were no questions and/or concerns of Board Members at this meeting.
Executive Session - Litigation

6/15/84 Moved by marvicsin supported by Berlinn the Board convene in Executive Session for the purpose of litigation. Roll call vote showed: Ayes: 7. Nays: 0. Motion carried.

The Board convened in Executive Session at 7:52 P.M. and reconvened in Regular Session at 7:57 P.M.
Possible Action on Roofs

6/16/84 Moved by marvicsin supported by Wilkerson the Board of Education authorize up to $11,000.00 for concrete humidity and metal integrity testing at Hale Creek and Barth Schools. This price would also include a diagnostic inspection of North Junior High School. Ayes: 7. Nays: 0. Motion carried.

The Board recessed at 7:59 P.M. for the following unofficial election results:
UNOFFICIAL MILLAGE ELECTION RESULTS (June 11, 1984)

6.0 Mills Operating Millage Proposition
Yes	1,510
No	1,434
1.5 Mills Maintenance Proposition
Yes	1,583
No	1,383
Board of Education Member (2) - 4 Year Term
Bath	442
Berlinn	995
Campbell	947
Nolen	654
Patterson	1286
Schleicher	659

The meeting reconvened in Regular Session at 8:57 P.M.
President Bales requested the Superintendent adopt the appropriate resolution to thank all of the millage workers and people of Romulus for making the election a success.
President Bales thanked all candidates for taking an interest in the education of the children of Romulus and congratulated Messrs. Patterson and Berlinn on their victories.
President Bales requested the Superintendent draft the appropriate resolution from the Board and the community thanking Member Campbell for his years of service as a dedicated member of the Romulsu Board of Education.
Possible Tax Rate Adjustment

6/17/84 Moved by Langley supported by Wilkerson, RESOLVED, By the Board of Education of Romulus Community Schools (R096) (82-130), That there be levied on the taxable property of said district for the Summer of 1984, for all purposes, a tax of 24.60 mills on the State equalized value thereof, said value being $305,485,680, and the tax amounting to $7,514,947.73. Ayes: 7. Nays: 0. Motion carried.

Secretary Langley read aloud suggestions of Mrs. French to commemorate the graduating of 8th graders to the senior high school level.

6/18/84 Moved by Langley supported by Wilkerson to refer to the Administration and Policy Committee the question of how to commemorate the graduating of 8th graders to the senior high school level. Ayes: 5 Nays: 2 (Berlinn & King). Motion carried.

ADJOURNMENT:

6/19/84 Moved by Marvicsin supported by King the meeting be adjourned. Ayes: 7. Nays: 0. Motion carried.

The meeting was adjourned at 9:12 P.M.
Respectfully submitted,

Sandra F. Langley, Secretary
Romulus Board of Education

Extension Service offers Job Training Program

Free job training and placement is available for local youths through the Extension Job Training Program. The program begins its sixth year this week at the Wayne County Cooperative Extension Service.

The new training design is geared toward preparing young people for jobs in the horticulture industry. The program is funded by a grant from the Wayne County Private Industry Council under the Job Training Partnership Act.

Participants must live in Western Wayne County. Residents of Detroit and the Downriver communities are not eligible but are encouraged to contact their Private Industry Councils to learn about the programs offered in their areas.

Extension Job Training participants must be 16 to 21 years old and unemployed. They must also be low income or handicapped. In some cases, those with other employment difficulties will be considered. Any eligibility questions should be directed to program staff.

The training will include basic horticulture vocational skills such as lawn care, transplanting, use of equipment, plant identification and floral design. Also included are career planning employability skills, life-survival skills, and job-seeking skills.

Intensive training is also available for those who wish to advance to specialized jobs. These include greenhouse management, landscaping, pest control, and vegetable/fruit production. While basic training includes these topics, the intensive training is designed to prepare participants for better than entry-level jobs.

"Our placement success has been excellent over the years. This summer we could not meet the employer demand," pointed out Debra McClaeb of the Extension Job Training staff.

The length of training is expected to vary from one to four months. Trainees will be given $5 per day to assist with their transportation costs. Graduates will receive a diploma. Intensive training graduates will receive an advanced diploma as well.

The Cooperative Extension Service is also functioning as a Job Information and Referral Center in conjunction with the Private Industry Council. Applicants of all ages are screened and referred to a variety of training programs throughout the area.

For more information about Extension Job Training or Job Information and Referral, call 721-6578 Monday through Friday, 8:30 a.m. to 4 p.m. Those interested may apply in person at the Extension Service at 5454 Venoy Road in Wayne, behind Annapolis Hospital.

Several Belleville-Romulus students were awarded their degrees during June 16 commencement ceremonies at Washtenaw Community College.

The graduates included Thomas Fraser and Clarence Stinnett, of Romulus, who completed degree requirements during the fall and winter semesters; Daniel Park and Karen Sierota of Romulus, who completed degree studies this spring; Julia Allison, Patricia Clark, Denise Criswell, Jackie Cromwell, William Kervin, Michael Prewitt, Laura Rapai and Eric Rickelmann of Belleville, who completed degree requirements last fall and winter; and Beatrice Gordon, Terry Caves, Georgia Gramlich, Colin Pitts, Terri Rocha, Dennis Schmidt, Cynthia Stover, Byron Thomas, Charmagne Williams and Dianne Zielinski of Belleville, who graduated this spring.

Linda Anderson, a 1984 graduate of Romulus Senior High School has been accepted for admission to Siena Heights College in Adrian for the fall 1984 semester.

Belleville resident Gregory Forsyth recently received his bachelor of science degree from Western Michigan University in Kalamazoo.

He is the son of Barbara Forsyth of Belleville.

Several Belleville-Romulus residents have been named to the Dean's List for the spring quarter at the Detroit College of Business.

Qualifying for the academics honors list by maintaining a minimum 3.50 grade point average were Janice Brazas of Romulus and Wanda Arquette and Catherine Richards of Belleville.

100 seek city golf titles

Dun Rovin to host 25th annual summer classic

By TOM MOORADIAN
ANP Sports Editor

The quest will begin for city golf championships on Saturday when more than 100 amateur male golfers from the area will take to the field in the 25th annual summer classic.

Dun Rovin, a challenging, 6,760-yard course in Plymouth Township, offers those seeking the city titles of Wayne, Westland, Garden City, Romulus, Inkster and the Township of Canton this year's test of skill and endurance.

"There are so many new names this year that I really can't say what will happen out there," said Bill Hawley, co-director of the tournament. "I will say this, however, that this year's competitions will be as thrilling and exciting as any in the past.

"I expect sub-par scores to win most of the city titles," he added.

The two-day meeting will begin at 11 a.m. Saturday (July 21) morning when about 100 golfers will tee off in the first round of the 36-hole tournament. The finals are scheduled for Sunday (July 22).

The summer classic, in its 25th year, is co-sponsored by the parks and recreation departments of Wayne, Westland, Garden City, Inkster, Romulus and Canton and The Associated Newspapers.

Dun Rovin is a challenging terrain that will permit the golfers to really hit out of a number of holes, says Hawley. The course is also dotted with intriquing obstacles that could frustrate the unwary golfer.

The top five finalists in each of the cities and township will qualify to compete in the Michigan Parks and Recreation Department's state champions. A finalist must be a bona fide resident of the city he is to represent.

Golfers will be playing for trophies awarded to the top three finishers in each of the flights and additional flights will be organized only if the over-all number in a particular community warrants it. (In case of a tie for a trophy, the golfers involved will decide the issue with a "sudden death" playoff.

Wayne golfers will also be competing for the Leonard Anderson Memorial Trophy. The traveling trophy is awarded to the medalist of the championship flight in Wayne. The trophy honors Patrolman Anderson, the first Wayne Police Officer slain in the line of duty.

The low scorer of the entire field will also be the recipient of a special trophy.

"The success of this tournament over the many years has been attributed to the sportsmanship displayed by all of the competitors," noted Bill Whitworth, who also serves as a co-tournament director. "We know that the competitors will carry on that tradition. This tournament has also been an enjoyable and learning experience for the young and senior citizens. That is why they have come back year after year."

Mr. Jones in quest of gold

TOM MOORADIAN
Sports Editor

Earl Jones is an amazing young athlete who has captured the hearts of this community.

There are runners and then there is Jones, a 6-foot, 160-pound track phenomenon who could become Inkster and this area's first Olympic Games' gold medalist.

With a record-shattering performance, Earl won the 800-meter run at the United States Olympic Trials at the Los Angeles Coliseum to become the premier candidate for the gold in that event at the 23rd Olympiad. The former Taylor Center and presently Eastern Michigan University star set an American record of 1:43.74, edging out Johnny Gray for first place in a classic photo finish at the Trials.

Jones' time also happens to be the best in the world ... and that's why everyone is keeping an eye on the young athlete from Inkster.

"He (Jones) is a track phenomenon who has unlimited potential," remarks Dennis Shillingford, one of Jones' coaches. "Earl is under tremendous pressure, as he has been during most of his career. But he can handle it."

Inkster and the area have rallied to raise $7000 to send Earl's parents, Mr. and Mrs. James Jones of Inkster, and Shillingford to the Olympic Games which will begin in late July and continue into August in Los Angeles.

"Citizens in the area and residents have asked how they can help," said Lewis Jackson, head of parks and recreation for the City of Inkster and who chairs the fundraising committee, "and my response has been to participate in the fundraisers." (Telephone Jackson at 565-4100 if you wish to contribute to the fund.)

A breakfast attended by more than 150 local and area businesspeople, a picnic and raffle have helped raise much of the $7,000. However, "We still need help;" says Carl Hornsby, vice president of Environmental Waste, and a member of the committee.

"You know the other day we received a donation from a elderly woman who gave $25. She remarked that "Earl has put Inkster on the map. God bless him.' This is the way people have been moved by all of this," Jerry Carnaghi noted.

There are numerous such stories.

Carnaghi, who is manager of the Inkster Ice Arena, says that "donations are coming in from all over."

"Earl has given this city a sense of community. I don't think that there is anyone who isn't pulling for this young man. We're all praying for him. Earl has captured the hearts of all of us."

In a span of two years Jones has also captured a host of titles that opened the doors for the invitation to compete in the trials. Jones, wearing EMU colors, won the Olympic Trials besting Rick Wohlhuter's 1974 mark of 1:43.91.

Prior to that event, at the NCAA indoor championships in 1983, Earl was given All-American status for his efforts in the 1,500 meters and in 1984 as a member of the EMU distance medley relay team, which he anchored, he earned similar distinction. He also anchored the Huron sprint medley team that ran a 3:18.7 at the Western Michigan Relays in January of 1984 which established a world record.

The list goes on and on.

Now comes the greatest challenge in Jones's brilliant track career: The run for the gold.

On July 11, Earl Jones flew to California in search of gold ...

The Olympic Gold Medal.

Fall prep schedules, please

As the 1984-85 high school sports season rapidly approaches, area high school athletic directors are urged to mail fall sports schedules to The Associated Newspapers' Sports Desk.

This year's expanded ANP sports coverage will include girls as well as boys' high school athletic events. News and features will highlight the activities of athletes at Wayne Memorial, Westland John Glenn, Belleville, Romulus, New Boston, Plymouth Salem, Canton, Livonia Franklin, Churchill, Cherry Hill, Inkster and Dearborn Heights Robichaud.

Athletic directors also are urged to include the home telephones of any new member on their coaching staff.

As in the past, the ANP will publish its annual High School Football Review. Area football coaches are asked to contact the ANP Sports Desk as soon as possible so that inteviews may be set up and times scheduled for team photos.

For further information telephone Tom Mooradian at 729-4000.

They're best in Westland

Chargers claim city crown

Opportunity knocks and the Chargers of the Westland youth Athletic Association (11 and 12 year olds) took advantage of them all as they defeated the Lions, 7-3, to claim the City Championship last Saturday afternoon at Central City Park.

Both teams entered the championship contest having secured their respective league titles — the Lions won the South with a 14-2 record under the guidance of Manager Jeff Durtka and the Chargers captured the North with an 11-6 slate under manager John Bradford's tutelage.

The Chargers' first opportunity came in the very first inning when Lions' starting pitcher Curtis Duffina walked the first two batters — Dean Vendal and Dave Sumey. But Duffina bore down and fanned the next two batters. Light certainly was at the end of the tunnel, until singles by Tom Kubik, Jeff Kubik, and Rich Baisch accounted for three runs.

Eric Vasquez was the Chargers' choice to start the championship game and he handled the Lions without any problems in the first three innings. In the third, he retired all three batters.

The Chargers added a pair of runs in the second on a walk to Chris Mondeux, a single by Vendal, and a walk to Vasquez, in addition to some key mistakes by the Lions.

But the Lions did not get to this game by luck and were not about to give up. Trailing 6-0 in the fourth inning, the Lions fans began their version of the Wave led by manager Durtka.

The players responded by scoring a pair of runs. Ken Tennant led off the inning with a single

Darnold wins Belleville city horseshoe title

Robert Darnold posted a thrilling 22-19 victory over Belleville's Richard Pepin to capture the first round of competitions at the second annual Belleville Horseshoe Tournament.

Darnold, a Ypsilanti resident, held off a late challenge to earn the first place prize.

Roger Chandler of Wayne finished a close third in the race. All three competitors received prizes donated by Hamilton Pro Hardware and Country Sports of Belleville.

The second and third rounds of the tournament will take place July 18 and July 25 at Victory Park in Belleville. The park is located on Main Street and Huron River Drive in Belleville.

Registration will begin at 6:15 p.m. The second round will feature singles competition while the third round is devoted to doubles. Area participants are welcomed to compete.

Chargers win championship

and Darrin Kent, who had replaced Duffina on the mount. Tennant was caught stealing at third while Kent reached second. With one out, Kevin Harrison singled in Kent and reached third on the throw to the plate. Harrison scored when Vasquez was called for a balk. Vasquez shook it off and closed out the inning with a fly to right.

The Lions closed the gap to 7-3 in teh fifth when, with one out, Carl Fox was safe on a fielder's choice and came home on a single by Tennant.

But again, Vasquez was equal to the task and got out of the jam with a fly to rightfield.

the Chargers added an insurance run in the bottom of the fifth on a lead-off double by Tom Kubik (he had three hits on the day), a walk to Smiles Haydin, and a single by Joey Mead.

Vasquez and the Chargers' defense took over the rest of the way. An unassisted doubleplay by first baseman Tom Kubik shortcircuited one Lion rally atempt, then Vasquez and Kubik took care of all three groundballs in the seventh and the championship game was history,

Also 14 grandchildren, and numerous great grandchildren. Funeral services were held July 16, 1984 at LENTS FUNERAL HOME 34567 Michigan Ave. Wayne. Rev. C. Harold Weiman officiating. Interment Parkview Memorial in Livonia

3. Cards of Thanks

I WISH TO express my heartfelt thanks to the people of Belleville for the kind world and friendly assistance in the death of my son, David Dalrymple. Especially to Dan Clem for the beautiful impromptu eulogy at the services and to the family in the apartment who comforted us and let us use their facilities during the search on that dreadful Sunday, and to the owners of Golden Boy for their wonderful assistance. God Bless you all and may God be with you always. Gladys Fowler.

CANCELLATIONS AND CORRECTIONS

Read your ad carefully the first time it appears, and report any errors before the next edition. This will be the only proof you will receive. Errors should be reported immediately, as Associated Newspapers, Inc. can be responsible for the first incorrect insertion only. NO CASH REFUNDS WILL BE MADE.

PUBLICATION POLICY

The publisher reserves the right to edit or reject and properly classify advertising submitted for publication. Publisher shall not be held liable for typographical errors except to the extent of the cost of first insertion and then only for that portion of ad that may have been rendered valueless by such error. Advertisers are advised to check their ad immediately after it appears in the paper and report at once any error found. Claims for error adjustment must be made immediately after ad is published.

HOW TO WRITE A GOOD CLASSIFIED AD

1. IT'S ALWAYS BEST to start your advertisement with the name of the item or service you have to offer. If you have an apartment or room for rent or property for sale, it's better to start your advertisement with the location.
2. BE CLEAR. Readers react more quickly and favorably when given complete or definite information. One of the most important considerations of any advertisement is to include the price.
3. MAKE IT EASY for the reader prospect to reach you. ALWAYS INSERT your telephone number or your name and address if you do not have regular hours, state a preferred time to have prospects contact you.
4. PLACE YOURSELF in the reader's position and ask yourself what you would like to know (about your offer). The answer you give will make a good classified ad.
5. CLASSIFIED READERS ARE already interested in buying used or new merchandise. These people have the money and are in the market to buy. Give them every advantage you can with good ad copy.
6. CLASSIFIED ADS THAT FAIL do so not through a lack of readership, but because they are often quickly worded and do not contain enough information to prompt action.

TOO MANY?

YES, but I sold it in the Want Ads.

Yes, I had one too many, but I sold the extra one through the quick-action Want Ads.

Brandy and Snifter were both great St. Bernards, but two is too many. Found Brandy a great home in a mountain winery. Those Want Ads are read everywhere.

If you have one too many of any useful item, a Want Ad can find it a new home and fill your wallet with some of that government lettuce.

Clean out those storage areas, it's a good New Year's Resolution, and those still valuable items like toys, bikes, appliances, sewing machines, typewriters, musical instruments, and the like, will be welcomed by someone.
